

Munitions Probers Broke Irate Over President's War Profits Plan

WASHINGTON—Not many people know it but the Senate Munitions Investigation Committee is flat broke. It has spent every cent of the $30,000 allotted to it, and its investigators have been working without pay for some weeks.

This is why its members have been so irate at the move of the President appointing his own committee to take the profits out of war.

The Senate Committee planned on the day after the senate convenes to ask for $50,000 additional to carry on the investigation.

But about the same time the War Profits Commission appointed by Roosevelt expects to report out certain legislation for the mobilization of industry in wartime.

This legislation is already drafted. In fact it was drafted long ago. It takes the form of 11 bills which the War Department whipped into shape in 1932-33. It includes even the licensing of newspapers.

Roosevelt's appointment of Barney Baruch and General Johnson on a special War Profits Commission, therefore, is regarded by the Senate Committee as mere window-dressing. All they will do is lend prestige and force to the War Department's prepared legislation. This will give an excuse to Senate die-hards to block further funds to the Munitions Committee. A knock-down and drag-out fight may result.

Bridle Path

John Boettiger, reported fiancé of Anna Roosevelt Dall, was the Chicago Tribune star reporter on the mystery murder of Jake Liege. For approximately one year he was assigned to this case, later wrote a book called "Jake Liege."

Previously, he wrote a series on sewerage conditions in the Great Lake cities, depicting some cities, particularly Cleveland, as depending in part upon scavenger birds along the water-front.

During the campaign in 1932, Boettiger was assigned to the Roosevelt train and it was here that he first met Anna Dall. They became friends during the trip, and afterwards Boettiger was assigned by his newspaper to cover the White House.

In Washington, Boettiger has been an intimate friend of the Roosevelt family and frequently rode with Mrs. Dall on the bridge paths of Potomac Park.

He is 34 years old and was divorced from his wife about six months after his transfer to Washington. He has no children.

Hull's Father

During the closing days of the Civil War, William Hull, father of the Secretary of State, was captured by three Yankee guerrillas in the Tennessee mountains. They beat him, shot away the upper part of his nose and one eye, threw him over a low bluff of the Cumberland River and left him for dead.

Mr. Hull, senior, revived, crawled into a nearby cornfield, and later learned who his assailants were. Several years later, having fully recovered, Mr. Hull got on his horse and went to look for the man who had taken the lead in mutilating him for life.

He followed this man over 3,000 miles, through Texas, through the sparsely settled Southwest and back to the mountains of East Tennessee. Finally he found his assailant, gave him time to make his peace with God and killed him.

First Inaugural Ball Since
1921 Planned for Governor-elect

MANY TO ATTEND

Details In Hands of Ravenna Man

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21—Plans for the inauguration of Martin L. Davey as governor of Ohio moved forward here today with the announcement of the appointment of John S. McCombs, Ravenna businessman and close personal friend of the governor-elect, as general chairman of the inaugural ceremonies.

The ceremonies, which are to be marked by an inaugural ball for the first time since 1921, will be held in Columbus at high noon, January 14. Plans are, according to McCombs, to make it a fitting memorial to a great Democratic victory.

CEREMONIES STUDIED

Details for the inaugural ceremonies will be worked out within the next few days by McCombs who will announce committees for the various plans. Officials at Democratic state headquarters here expect a "great outpouring" of voters to witness Davey's induction into office.

"It is our desire," McCombs said today, "to properly celebrate induction into office of the people's choice for governor."

The oath of office will be administered to Davey by Chief Justice Carl V. Weyand of the Ohio Supreme court. Following the induction of the governor into office, a reception will be held in the rotunda of the state house.

FOLLOWED BY BALL

The inaugural ceremonies will be tapered off at night with a press smoker followed by an elaborate inaugural ball to be held in the Municipal Hall here. A legislative banquet will be held the following night.

WOMAN, 19, JAILED FOR TAKING CHILD

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 21—Charged with snatching a four-day-old infant from the arms of its mother in a kidnapping attempt, Mrs. Dorothy Marsh, 19, was held in the city prison here today, unable to provide $5,000 bond.

Mrs. Marsh was arrested when Mrs. Joseph Robbins, 25, wife of a FEHA worker, reported that her infant son had been kidnapped by a woman who posed as a social worker. When detectives rushed into Mrs. Marsh's room at a boarding house, she maintained for some time that she was the mother of the infant she held in her arms.

The snatching of the infant, police said, was part of a plan by Mrs. Marsh to affect a reconciliation with her husband, Porter Marsh, who is confined in a Plymouth, Ind., hospital with injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

SALTCREEK-TWP WOMAN CALLED

Mrs. Gettie Imler, 65, wife of Albert Imler, died suddenly Thursday of angina pectoris at her home in Saltcreek-twp near Whisler.

She leaves in addition to the husband, two daughters, Mrs. Grace Heskett of Akron and Mrs. Goldie Petty of Columbus.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Presbyterian church in Whisler with Rev. Forester of Kingston, officiating. Burial will be in the Whisler cemetery by H. E. Deffenbaugh and Son.

TAKES NEW POST

Mrs. William G. Baker (Virginia Hay), who has been connected with the Pickaway-co farm bureau for more than 10 years, has accepted a position in Columbus in the employ of Guy Dowdy, former Pickaway-co farm agent. Mr. Dowdy is now compliance agent for Ohio under the A. A. program.

His office is in Townsend hall at Ohio State university. Mrs. Baker begins her new duties Monday, Dec. 31.

Her position will be taken at the farm bureau by Miss Mary Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson. The new employee is a graduate of the 4H club organization.

HALF MILLION LOST IN FIRE

Lucas-Co Armory Destroyed; Equipment Provides Greatest Damage.

TOLEDO, Dec. 21—Fire causing damage estimated at more than $500,000 today swept through the Lucas-co armory, located only two blocks from the heart of Toledo's business section.

A possible major explosion was averted by prompt action of firemen. Fourteen companies of the Toledo fire department poured streams of water into the blazing building, in which approximately one million dollars worth of Ohio National guard ammunition and equipment were stored.

Shortly before 11 a. m., after several hours of fighting the blaze, firemen brought the flames under control.

The building, a squat two-story brick and wood structure covering half a city block, was badly damaged by the flames but by far the heaviest loss was to the equipment stored inside.

At least half of the roof of the building was burned off. Fire Chief Fred Myers of Toledo, who took personal charge of the forces combating the fire, expressed belief the blaze broke out as the result of a cigarette carelessly dropped by a spectator at a wrestling match staged in the armory last night.

Myers said an exact accounting of the damage would be impossible until a close checkup could be made of damage to equipment.

Captain C. E. Rowe of the Ohio National guard, who is in charge of the building, expressed fear the damage might run over a half million dollars.

Although water was poured into the building in time to prevent the ammunition from exploding, it was believed that the guns and ammunition were damaged badly by the water.

The building contained equipment estimated to be worth approximately $1,000,000. It included clothing, motor cars, 1,300 rifles, 1,000 pistols, 4, 6, and 8-inch guns, three 75-millimeter guns, and 1,500 uniforms.

The armory, built in 1891, is insured for $135,000, said to be 90 per cent of its appraisal value.

DOCTOR'S MACHINE WRECKED BY POLE

Dr. D. V. Courtright narrowly escaped serious injury Thursday evening when his Ford coupe skidded off the road near the Sturms-Dillard gravel washer and struck a telephone pole.

The Courtright machine was badly wrecked.

Dr. Courtright was driving toward this city when the accident happened. He was alone.

INVENTORIES FILED

Inventories in the estates of the late Cary Brown and Mrs. Jennie L. Tipton, both Deercreek-twp residents, were on file in probate court today.

The Brown estate, according to the appraisers, C. D. Brunner, George P. Foreman and Edward C. Rector, is worth $22,574.28 of which $20,855.14 is real estate. Mrs. Emma Brown, his widow, is the executrix.

The Tipton estate, of which Mrs. Tipton's son, Fred L., is administrator, is worth $4,263.75 of which $3,898.75 is in stocks and securities. Appraisers were C. W. Hays, B. M. Radcliff and W. D. Heiskell.

Hunting for Light Switch
To Bedroom

Mrs. Lemuel B. James, 124 W. Mound-st., suffered painful and serious injuries Thursday about 6 p. m. when she fell six steps from the upstairs to the first landing at her home.

She has a badly fractured left hip.

Mrs. James was alone in her home when she started upstairs. For some reason she snapped off the light when she started to climb the stairs. After reaching the top she started to search for the button to turn on the light in her bedroom and in shuffling through the dark lost her sense of direction and fell down the stairway.

Had she remained on the landing where she fell the injury would not have been considered so serious but she managed to crawl to a telephone where she summoned Dr. Howard Jones. In crawling she aggravated the injury.

She was taken to Berger hospital Friday morning for an X-ray then was returned to her home.

"SANTA CLAUS" FETE MONDAY

Legion Makes Definite Plans
For Christmas Tree; Rotary Obtains Funds.

The annual community Christmas tree frolic sponsored by Howard Hall post American Legion aided by the Rotary club will be held Monday evening at the court house. Funds have been solicited and candy will be provided for all small children of the city.

A real Santa Claus will be there, too, so it promises to be a big evening.

Henry Mason is chairman of the affair and on his committee are Bryan Custer, Charles Radcliff, Fred Dauenhauer and James Cook. This committee urged today that all Legionnaires and Rotarians come early in order to assist in putting on the good time for the kiddies.

Miss Mary Pickens ably did the solicitation work which was under the direction of the Rotary club.

WILLIAMSPORT MUTE SUCCUMBS

Alvin Peter Ecord, 83, a native of Deercreek-twp, died at Berger hospital Thursday at 8 p. m. of complications after an operation.

Mr. Ecord was a mute.

He was one of four children of Dr. Peter and Elizabeth J. Davis Ecord. A half sister, Mrs. Lloyd McLean of New York, survives.

Mr. Ecord was well educated despite his handicap. He studied at the Columbus school for the deaf and dumb and was a skilled mechanic. He was well known in Williamsport where he made his home.

The funeral will be Saturday at 10 a. m. at the Hill funeral home with burial in Springlawn cemetery.

MUHLBERG-TWP OFFICIALS SHOW CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Muhlberg-twp has a real Christmas spirit.

After the Christmas program at the school Friday afternoon every child was treated with a sack of candy, nuts and orange. The plan was followed out to be certain that no child was without a Christmas of some kind.

Public-spirited citizens who were responsible were Zeb Smith, justice of the peace; Frank Beatty, township clerk; Cecil Reid, president of the board of education, and Ambrose Moul, Gilbert Crawford and Milton Fullen, trustees.

These men solicited the entire township and collected $39.75 with which they purchased 275 pounds of candy, 75 pounds of nuts and 300 oranges.

Ace Cuts Two Hours Off Miami-Chicago Air Trip

CHICAGO, Dec. 21—Less than eight hours separated Miami, Fla., and Chicago today with establishment of a new transport plane record by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker at the controls of a big Douglas monoplane of the Eastern Air lines.

The war-time ace flew thirteen passengers here from Miami last evening in 7 hours and 40 minutes to inaugurate the Eastern Air lines' daily nine hour service between Miami and Chicago.

Capt. Rickenbacker's flying time cut two hours and 20 minutes from the former transport record. A blinding snowstorm that forced the plane to "fly blind" for the last 150 miles obscured the boundary lights of Chicago airport as the big plane came to an easy landing.

Thirteen passengers made the trip with Capt. Rickenbacker.

During most of the flight the monoplane remained at an altitude of 12,000 feet. One stop was made for fuel, when the plane halted in Atlanta for 25 minutes.

SOVIET TO EXILE FORMER LEADERS

WARSAW, Dec. 21—Exile faces Gregory Zinoviev and Lev Kamenev, one-time leaders of the Bolshevik regime, who are under arrest in Moscow in connection with the recent assassination of Sergei M. Kirov, it was learned here today.

The two old guard Bolsheviks were seized Wednesday night, together with four or five other prominent party leaders whose names have not been made known.

The prisoners will be tried, and if convicted will be sent abroad. Just as Leon Trotsky was banished for his opposition to the Stalin regime.

It is the policy of the Soviet government not to execute important members or ex-members of the Communist party.

Convicts Who Withstood 'T. B.' Germs Gain Liberty

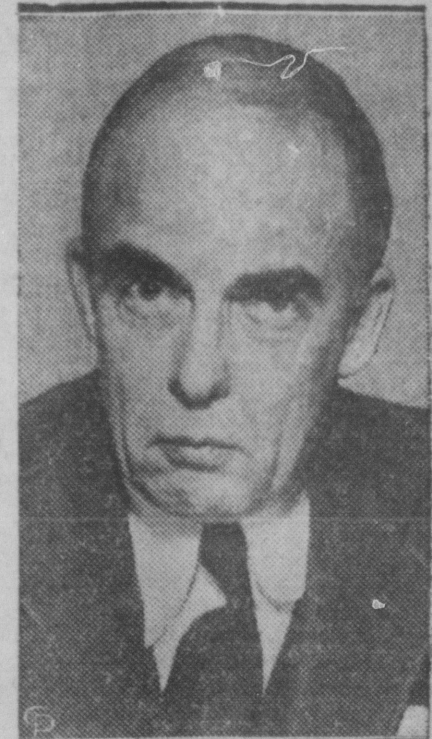

DENVER, Dec. 21—Two Colorado convicts, released from prison on Christmas paroles because of their services to humanity in allowing their bodies to be used in testing a serum designed to prevent tuberculosis, were on their way to a new life "outside" today.

Carl Erickson, 64, Swedish-born mining engineer, who served 19 years of a life sentence for the murder of his wife, stopped over in Denver last night while on his way to the mountains near Fort Collins, where he will start work on developing a gold vein he claims to have discovered before he went to prison. County Judge Kent L. Eldred of Canon City is grudgingly the viceroy to that mine.

"Ya, I'm going up to that mine and I'll maybe get rich," he said. "I studied mining in Sweden and I know good ore when I see it. I was only a kid then but I saw that vein. Never did I tell about it but always I think and dream about it. I'll be rich yet, you see if that's not right."

Mike Schmidt, Russian-born German farmer, was so excited over his release Thursday he was unable to sign his name. He has

Allan F. Ayers

Objection has been raised to the appointment of Allan F. Ayers, above, as state superintendent of banks in Ohio by Governor-elect Martin L. Davey. Ayers, a former vice president of the defunct Guardian Trust Co., of Cleveland, owes the bank approximately $41,000, while an industrial railroad of which Ayers was a director owed the same bank $183,950 and its president owed approximately $28,418 at the time the bank closed. Governor-elect Davey and corporations which he heads owed the bank approximately $195,000—but he says this is covered by 150 per cent.

GEHRES HEADS FARM CENSUS

Chillicothe Man To Direct
Work In This District; To Appoint Aides.

Edwin C. Gehres, of Chillicothe, has been appointed district supervisor for the 1935 farm census. The census bureau has announced.

Gehres will be in charge of a number of counties including Pickaway-co. It is believed he will announce the census takers for each county as soon as appointments are made.

The farm census is scheduled to get under way January 2. Seven supervisors, in all will direct the work in Ohio which is expected to be completed within a month's time. About 836 enumerators will work under the supervisors in taking the census.

Pickaway-co is to have eight enumerators including William H. Hulse, Jackson-twp; C. O. Smith, Madison-twp; J. M. Tootle, Monroe-twp; Jesse Pitt, Muhlenberg-twp; Wilbur V. Pontius, Pickaway-twp; William Beavers, Scioto-twp, and William Good, Washington-twp, if the recommendation of the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee is followed.

PLAN NIGHT SCHOOL

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21—Detailed plans for night schools for adult farmers throughout the state were being worked out here today at a conference of 130 teachers from 60 counties meeting under the supervision of the state relief commission which is sponsoring the statewide program.

Climaxing the five-day meeting, Prof. H. C. Ramsower, chief of the Ohio State University's agricultural extension service, was to address the teachers on "The Philosophy of Agricultural Adjustment."

The so-called training conference was held, an announcement by the relief commission said, to advance the program for instruction of adults in emergency school classes directed by instructors in rural economics and recreation. Each class will meet three hours one evening over a period of at least 12 weeks, it was said.

CONVICT GIVEN PAROLE HEARING

Curtis Walton, of Lancaster, who is now serving three concurrent sentences in the Ohio penitentiary for forcing the safe of the S. C. Grant coal office, for breaking and entering and for auto theft will be given a parole hearing Feb. 1, D. J. Bonzo, the prison's record clerk, announced today.

Walton was arrested with Leo Alexander for the Grant robbery. Walton is a "second timer."

MAN FREED FROM PRISON THURSDAY IS AGAIN IN JAIL

Clarence Floyd, of Tarlton, who was released Thursday from the Ohio penitentiary on parole after a forgery charge, was in jail Friday after being arrested for infraction and disorderly conduct.

It is probable he will be returned to prison. He was arrested by city officers.

Australian Ace After Record Today

CAIRO, Dec. 21—Twenty-five airplanes that scoured the storm-soaked Syrian desert for the missing "flying hotel" that placed second in the London-Melbourne air race found it today—a charred wreck, its seven occupants killed.

A detachment of the British Royal air force risked their own lives in landing in the mud near the wreck, but the heat of the still-smouldering wreckage was too great for them to approach close enough to remove the bodies.

HIT BY LIGHTNING?

Fliers who participated in the discovery expressed the belief that the big American-built Douglas transport had either been hit by lightning or forced down in the storm shortly after she sent out her last wireless message—which indicated no trouble—early Wednesday morning.

The scene of the tragedy was ten miles south of Rutbah Wells, one of the few water-holes in the barren stretch west of Bagdad. The British army maintains a small garrison there.

Twenty-four R. A. F. planes and one French commercial machine aided in the hunt.

Officials of the KLM—the Royal Dutch air lines—which had placed the famous plane on a regular run, and Iraq authorities left Bagdad immediately for the wreck.

The ill-fated plane carried a crew of four and three passengers.

SMITH AFTER RECORD?

UNION AIR TERMINAL, Burbank, Cal., Dec. 21—Sir Charles Kingsford Smith, who has twice flown the Trans-Pacific airways between Australia and the United States, today took off here on what may become an attempt to break the existing air records between Los Angeles and New York.

Smith, accompanied by Harry E. Walker, a California rancher, left the field at 4:58 a. m. P. S. T.

The big Lockheed Altair plane, "Lady Southern Cross" which carried Smith on his last trans-Pacific flight, carried 300 gallons of gasoline for its 750-horsepower wasp motor.

CHICAGO, Dec. 21—David L. Behncke, air line pilot's association president, and his co-pilot, Kenneth Quayle, lay in Hinsdale sanitarium today suffering from injuries incurred when their United Air lines plane crashed in a blinding snowstorm.

The storm, lasting several hours and covering a wide area of the Great Lakes region, swelled the all-time record December snow fall here to 23 inches.

Pilot Behncke attempted to set the plane down on an emergency landing field when motor trouble developed last night, but the blinding wall of snow caused the plane to crash into a tree in the residential section of suburban Western Springs.

The plane, carrying express but no passengers, had just taken off from Chicago airport for Omaha, Neb.

Mrs. Laura May Vale, 33, widow of Lloyd Vale, a World War veteran, died Friday morning in Athens state hospital.

She was born April 25, 1901 a daughter of John C. and Ella May Saunders.

She is survived by three children, Anna Louise, Estella May and Bertha Lorraine, all living here. Two sisters, Mrs. Hettie Brown of this city, Mrs. Ada Atkinson of New Cumberland, W. Va. also survive.

The funeral will be Monday at 10:30 a. m. at the North End Mission with burial in Forest cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

PAROLE OF PERRY DELAYED TO 1936

Frank Perry, Londonderry man who was sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary after pleading guilty to a statutory charge involving a Perry-twp youth, will have to wait until Dec. 1936 for a parole hearing.

Perry was sent to the prison for an indeterminate term of not more than 20 years.

The state parole board today had granted paroles to 23 prisoners after hearing 123 cases. Eighty-nine were continued. Eight of the paroles granted became effective before Christmas.

SHIP, TOSSED BY OCEAN ON WAY TO PORT

Own Sailors Make Repairs To Steering Apparatus; Guard Is Convoy.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 — After having been buffeted mercilessly by mountainous seas and almost abandoned yesterday when her steering gear became broken, the Severance of the Diamond line, a 4,993 ton freighter, was on her way to her home port of Boston under her own power early today.

The ship, bound from Norfolk to Boston ran into difficulties off Fire island and a call for aid was sent out by her crew of 41 men.

The coast guard cutter Champlain was sent to her assistance and made repeated efforts to attach a tow line to the freighter, but towering seas prevented this. Finally, in desperation, the vessel's crew took matters into their own hands and succeeded in patching up the steering apparatus sufficiently well to enable them to proceed toward New York at the slow speed of 6 knots an hour, with the Champlain acting as a convoy.

At 4 a. m. today, however, the master of the freighter and crew, after having worked steadily for almost 24 hours, decided sufficient repairs had been made to enable the ship to proceed safely to Boston. Advised of this, the Champlain left the freighter and continued to New York.

With the Severance apparently past danger, radio dispatches here indicated the 414-ton trawler Widgdon, out of Brooklyn, was in distress 100 miles east of Boston.

The Widgdon, which carries a crew of 22 men, advised shore stations she was at the mercy of heavy seas with a broken pump and engine trouble and was urgently in need of a tow.

GIRL, 10, SUFFERS TENTH FRACTURE

MUSKEGON, Mich., Dec. 21.—Ten-year-old Dorothy Smith, whose bones are so fragile they snap under any unusual strain, will spend her second consecutive Christmas in a hospital with a fractured leg.

She has averaged one broken leg or arm each year of her life. Her right leg was broken at birth, and set when she was four days old.

Since then she has suffered two fractures of the right leg; two fractures of the left leg; four fractures of the right arm; and one broken ankle.

Physicians have been unable to diagnose with certainty the strange condition which makes her bones as brittle as pieces of glass tubing. A person of ordinary strength could break any bone in the little girl's body with his fingers, the physicians say.

Dorothy, despite her misfortune and the poverty of her family, which is dependent upon welfare agencies, maintains a cheerful outlook on life.

She took her latest broken leg with philosophic calm. But her ten previous experiences had taught her what to expect when the doctor set the limb, and for the first time she asked for an anesthetic.

"I want to go to sleep first," she said.

Her previous bone-sets were done without anesthetics.

HOLIDAY DINNER COSTS 6 DOLLARS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21—A Christmas dinner for a family of five persons, with a 10 or 12 pound turkey gracing the boards, will cost the Ohio housewife about $6 this year, a survey of retail stores shows today.

The price, however, could be pruned somewhat by purchasing the turkey direct from a farm or substituting chicken for the main fare. Dressed turkeys were expected to retail for from 27 to 30 cents a pound, oysters were selling at 45 cents a quart and mince meat at 15 cents a pound.

In addition, oranges, grapes and other fruits as well as nuts and candy could be included in the $6-for-five dinner. The cost of preparing the holiday meal was not greatly above the 1933 cost.

Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., is now appearing in "The Private Life of Don Juan," a role to which he seems to be adapted by reason of many natural characteristics.

WASHINGTON GRANGE ENJOYS CHRISTMAS PARTY

About eighty members of Washington Grange enjoyed their annual Christmas party Thursday evening in the Washington-twp school auditorium, which was beautifully decorated in the holiday colors.

A short business session preceded the merry hours. Plans were made for the grange's annual banquet Friday, Dec. 28, at 6:30 p. m. Mrs. Stanley Glick is chairman of the affair and will be assisted by Miss Ruth DeLong and Thomas Heffner. Miss Alma Glick is chairman of the dining room.

The program was opened with several readings including "Christmas Is Coming" by David Bolender; "Why the Chimes Rang" by Mrs. M. J. Valentine; and "Remember This Winter Sport, Seeing Nellie Home" by E. F. Leist.

A play, "Coming Home for Christmas" was presented by Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Heffner, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Stout and sons, Jackie and Billy, Miss Alma Glick, Ralph DeLong, Arthur Leist, Miss Alma Groce, Mrs. Byron Bolender and Miss Martha Bolender.

A contest "Decorating a Living Christmas Tree" followed and a quartet comprised of Charles Walters, Thomas Heffner, Ruth DeLong and Mrs. Merle Bowman sang Christmas carols.

After the exchange of gifts around a prettily lighted Christmas tree a lunch in keeping with the season was served.

MISS EICHINGER SINGS IN COLLEGE SERVICE

Miss Evelyn Eichinger of this city, a senior at Ohio university, Athens, sang in the French and Latin carol service at the university just prior to the Christmas recess given by L'Alliance Francaise, French club at the college. Appropriate lantern slides and backgrounds added much to the effectiveness of the singing of the old carols.

Miss Eichinger is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary educational fraternity, University Choir, the Senior Women's Council and Alpha Gamma Delta, national social sorority.

Also of interest locally concerning Ohio university is the pledging of James Chilcote of Kingston by Delta Pi Alpha, honorary physical education fraternity. He is a senior in the College of Education at the school.

TELEPHONE CO. EMPLOYEES ENJOY BANQUET THURSDAY

Seventy nine employees of The Citizens Telephone Co. and The Buckeye Lake Home Telephone Co. of Baltimore enjoyed a Christmas party and campaign banquet at the Pickaway Country club Thursday evening.

The party was a delightful social affair. The club house was beautifully decorated with the holiday colors and symbols including a large Christmas tree prettily lighted and trimmed. Santa Claus in the person of Kirby Gearhart of Stoutsville distributed gifts to all which were later donated to the Community Christmas Fund committee.

The dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock at attractively appointed tables. Following the gay dinner hour games and contests and several musical numbers were enjoyed.

Hilaire Haecker, this city, played accordion and harmonica selections and Miss Helen Spiller and Miss Ruth Gaskill of Baltimore entertained with a piano solo and a whistling solo, respectively.

This affair also closed a service selling campaign for these two companies. Grand prizes were awarded as follows:

Miss Mary Howard of the local company, first prize for ladies; Miss Clara Price of The Buckeye Lake Co. second for ladies; G. H. Brintlinger of the local company, first for men, and Bundy Hendrix, of the local company, second for men.

Both companies have had a very large increase in business due to the efforts of the employees in cooperation with the New Business department. The Citizens Co. has made a net gain in subscribers so far this year of 193 stations.

CHRISTMAS PARTY ENJOYED BY PYTHIAN SISTERS

A Christmas party was enjoyed by Majors temple Pythian Sisters Thursday evening following the regular meeting.

During a short business period an auditing committee was appointed including Miss Alice Wilson, Mrs. Loring Evans and Miss Virginia Marion.

Plans were also discussed for the next meeting Jan. 3 at which time newly elected officers will be installed. Mrs. George Valentine was named chairman of the covered-dish lunch to be served after the session.

After the business the group gathered around a prettily trimmed and lighted Christmas tree and sang carols. Mrs. Fred Brown as Santa Claus distributed gifts.

Holiday colors and symbols decorated the tables which were lighted with red tapers for the lunch served by Mrs. James Carpenter, Misses Clara and Florence Lathouse and Mrs. Gilbert Edgington. About forty members were present.

DANCE TICKETS ON SALE AT EBERT'S

The tickets for the annual Mistletoe dance Wednesday, Dec. 26 at Memorial hall will be on sale all day Saturday, Monday and Wednesday at Ebert's Soda Grill for those who desire to purchase them at this time.

Proceeds from the dance as in previous years will be given to charity. Miss Evelyn Adkins is chairman of the affair.

Ralph Lloyd and his eleven piece orchestra will furnish the music from 10 until 2 o'clock.

Members of the Legion Auxiliary will serve the lunch.

LADIES' SOCIETY HAS CHRISTMAS PROGRAM

BIBLE CLASS CHRISTMAS PARTY IS GAY AFFAIR

The annual Christmas party of the Shining Light Bible class of the United Brethren church Thursday night was a gay affair in the Community house which was prettily decorated in the season's colors and a large Christmas tree trimmed and lighted in the center of the room.

Group singing of Christmas carols led by Mrs. Tey Greeno opened the evening's program and was followed by a Christmas story read from the Bible by Mrs. Ed McClarren.

A short business session ensued with the president, Mrs. Roy Groce, in charge after which Rev. T. C. Harper gave a short talk on the Meaning of Christmas—What It Has Meant to Home and Child Life.

Mrs. Effie Albright was chairman of the remainder of the program, which consisted of a reading, "Vision of St. Nicholas" by Miss Daisy Woolever; recitation, "What Then" by Mrs. Ralph Long; reading, "Shine Where You Are" Miss Viola Woolever.

Mrs. Long in behalf of the class presented the class teacher, Mrs. Jennie Steele, with gifts after which Santa Claus in the person of Mrs. Greeno distributed gifts among the members.

A happy social hour followed during which dainty refreshments were served to the fifty members and guests present by the December committee comprised of Mrs. Amanda Cox, chairman, Mrs. George Byers, Mrs. Charles Betz and Miss Blanche Ryan.

MISS KIRKPATRICK ENTERTAINS CLUB

NEW HEROES

HERE is confirmation of a changed trend in popular thought in news that several motion-picture companies are trying to be the first to get out a picture exalting the federal secret service. The killings of Dillinger and "Baby Face" Nelson are said to have been the spark that set off this new enthusiasm. After months of quiet, efficient work, the federal men did something spectacular enough to make the movie public conscious of daring within the ranks of the service of law and order.

At the height of the wave of gangster films we had, in spite of the stereotyped "crime-doesn't-pay" endings, a kind of exaltation of the underworld thug. He was a modern Robin Hood, or a two-fisted bucko who swaggered through the story in a sympathetic way; he was a misunderstood boy gone wrong, and, of course, he had to pay the penalty. But he wasn't really despicable. And the forces of the law were merely that—the law. Now we are to get something different, with the criminal shown as a rat and the man of the law the real hero. Not a story which is moral by indirection, but a story which exalts the law.

It is a significant change. And it is, as most fashions in movies are, a reflection of public sentiment among the masses. Times have changed. The next thing we know our small boys will be squabbling over the honor of playing the role of detective in their games. Only a few years ago the choice role among the youngsters was that of the gangster, you may recall.

MAYBE IT WON'T BE LONG

WITH steel mills gyrating away at 35 per cent of capacity, the highest rate of production since June, and steadily gaining, with automobile factories stepping up output week by week as new car buying gains momentum, with bank clearings showing gains over last year for three consecutive weeks, reversing a long-continued trend—but why go on?

Business is better, so what matter the details? The outlook for next year is encouraging and the prospect for a steadily-improving trend in business is all the more solidly founded because it is unaccompanied by much ballyhoo. When men like Charles G. Dawes predict the end of the depression the days of the "Old Devil" are numbered.

CALENDAR GIFTS

IN former years we used to get so many calendars, largely from commercial houses, that it took a little artificial enthusiasm to pump up proper gratitude for them.

But in these times when people look at a nickel with longing affection, many concerns that used to send out calendars have adjourned this nice habit. If we don't accept those our friends send us with suitable interest, we may be altogether lacking in them in future.

Inspiring quotations for every day or week is a noble kind of gift. It is like inviting your friend to go with you to some mountain top, where you see above the murky air, and get a vision of far horizons. When we begin the day with the philosophers, we don't spend it with the grouches and knockers.

No friend seems quite so wonderful after you meet the other people he likes.

You can say one thing for peace-time killers. They don't persuade the church to o. k. it.

To discover the richest man in a hick town, just notice which one the gossips slander most.

LAW OF PURITANS

THE Puritans regarded Christmas as savoring of popery and preferred their own celebration of Thanksgiving.

In 1639 the General Court of Massachusetts enacted that "anybody who is found observing, by abstinence from labor, feasting or any other way any such day as Christmas day shall for each and every such offense be fined five shillings."

CHAPTER XXXIX

On the way to tell Caroline the good news he planned how and where they should be married—in another town, of course, by a justice of the peace if Caroline did not object—less fuss—then they could go on to New York—and sail or motor from there to wherever they liked.

He jumped out of his car and ran gayly up the walk to the porch, pressed the doorbell button exuberantly and stood waiting impatiently to be admitted. It was Mrs. Stevenson who let him in and in answer to his eager inquiry about Caroline told him that Miss Rutledge was upstairs with her father. "Mr. Rutledge is ill, sir. We've sent for the doctor. He was brought home at dinner time in a daze. He's very weak, sir."

"May I go up?" Howard snapped. Caroline appeared at the head of the stairs. "Please come up," she said in a frightened half whisper. Howard was shocked when he saw the sick man, Philip appeared to have aged years in the past twenty-four hours. He was pallid and shrunken, with drawn lips and glazed eyes, in which there lingered a hint of terror.

Howard thought: "It's paresis!" But he said to Caroline: "Looks like a nervous breakdown. Don't worry. We'll have him right again in no time."

She went out of the room with him. When they were alone he swept her into his arms with a masterly force. "Darling," he whispered, "think of me a moment. I've waited so long for you. And now we can be married. Tomorrow. Don't let anything come between us again. Your father will be all right. We'll place him in a sanitarium. He needs good nursing, that's all. I've made all our plans—we're going away—on our honeymoon. This is the only time I have—don't let anything spoil it."

Caroline pulled herself away from him. In her face joy struggled with distress. "Oh Howard, I'm so glad. You are all mine to love now."

"Nothing can keep us apart but you, dear. We could be married this afternoon if you would. But please, not later than tomorrow. My vacation begins then. Let's not waste a day of it. We'll go to Bermuda, Florida, Cuba, anywhere you like!" Caroline sank back against him with a deep sigh. "I can't plan, dearest, until I hear what the doctor says about Father. If his life is in danger—if he needs me—I can't leave him."

Her tone was quiet, not unusually emphatic, but Howard knew that to argue with her was useless. They went on downstairs and waited. He talked, going into details of their plans, saying he knew her father would quickly recover. But in his heart was a premonition of defeat. The doctor pronounced Philip's condition critical, but not hopeless. Nervous and a mental disorder brought on by worry and—hesitated over saying it—dissipation. But the patient could be nursed back to health, he believed.

Howard sought with every persuasive argument at his command to induce Caroline to leave her father to go to a sanitarium and go on with their plan to be married without delay.

Caroline asked for a week. If her father were better then she would leave him. Howard was constrained to accept her decision. Had he not feared that it would become known to his father he'd have asked her to marry there, or in some remote town, and given up the wedding trip. Although the thought of a honeymoon spent in the house on Edge Street with his bride nursing an invalid father, caused him to shudder. But he could not escape the nameless fear that he would lose the girl he loved. He'd have done anything to possess her, short of defying his father.

Three days later Gwendolyn returned to her father's house. Howard heard of it very shortly. He had told his father that he would like to postpone his vacation for a week in order to find someone to go on a motor trip with him. He did not go back to his so-called work at the factory. Mr. Dunsworth telephoned him from the office one morning before Howard had left the house and asked him to get over there as quickly as possible. Howard found him in a rage.

"Hell's popping!" he shouted the instant Howard had closed the door. "Why in heaven's name didn't you tell me the truth you—you?" Howard paled. "What the devil?" he tried to say but the words stuck in his throat.

"Yes, stand there and look like a dumb ox!" his father exploded. "You'll say something fast enough when old man Hoffman gets his hands on you. St. Gwendolyn was going to marry Freddy Somebody was she? And she wouldn't have a word to say against you?" The sneering snarling voice whipped at Howard's ears like a lash. They were followed by a bitter taunting laugh.

"Well, she's said it my fine double-crossing son."

Howard stumbled to the nearest chair, sank into it unlimply. His father raved on.

"You didn't think of what would happen if she fell out with Freddy, did you? But that's just what happened. She told it all to Hoffman, and believe me I got it from him. He went out of here a minute ago wild as a bull. And that's the end of us!"

Howard plucked out a handkerchief and wiped a wet brow. He was scared—but so far his father hadn't mentioned Caroline—perhaps Gwendolyn hadn't told everything.

"Well, what if she did break up with Freddy?" he asked with a weak defiance. "No reason why she couldn't tell about it now."

"None at all," his father agreed sarcastically, "and by the same token there was no reason why she shouldn't say that your neglect drove her into it in the first place."

Howard's face grew white. He felt a low, savage intensity as he added: "Because of your insane infatuation for that Rutledge girl!"

Howard flinched. Henry Dunsworth strode over and stood above him in a threatening attitude. "I've been a fool," he cried between his teeth, "falling for your lies, but let me tell you this. I'm done with that. If you marry that girl you'll never get a penny of my money."

Howard threw up a hand in a negative gesture. "I haven't married her," he said hoarsely, "and I've been free for days. And you might remember that I stuck to Gwen when she was sick. Just to protect you. She's the one you ought to blame. She's had everything her own way. I could kill the little beast!"

"I'm blaming you. But go ahead and throw up everything for the daughter of an old drunken bum! They'll never touch a cent of my money."

A glint of light appeared in Howard's eyes. "You can't stand before me and Caroline just because Hoffman's letting you down," he retorted. "It would be the same if it were any other girl. I won't give her up, I tell you. I love her. Doesn't that mean anything to you?"

"It means that you're a darn fool. But you can make your own choice. She got you into this—just about ruined us. I've got to sell now to Purcell at any price. But don't make any mistake about where you stand. Spent all your money. I know that. Spent all your grandmother's money. On that Rutledge girl, I suppose. You'll go on your ear, flat, if you marry her, so help me!"

Howard was licked. "O.K.," he said wearily and got up to go. "But I'll never forgive you for this!"

His father laughed. "Howard went out to South Town and waited for Caroline to come home from work. She cried out in alarm at sight of him, but he gave her some fictitious story of witnessing a bad accident and Caroline accepted it. She mixed him a drink and tried to keep him talking about other things so that he would forget what he had seen."

She was feeling very happy. Her father was much improved. Howard compelled himself to show a proper interest in Philip's condition, but he did not speak of what it might mean to them.

Caroline was grateful for what she took to be his patience. She wanted the full week in which to make certain that her father's progress toward recovery would continue. And it would hurt all the more, she felt, if they must delay their marriage longer, to have made all their plans for it.

At the end of the week of waiting she announced to Howard, with radiant joy, that it would be safe to leave Philip in Mrs. Stevenson's care.

"You've been so sweet and kind, darling," she added, kissing him tenderly. "I hope I can make you really and truly happy."

Howard held her close, kept her face turned away from him as he answered. He had thought it all out a hundred times, what he would say to her. With words he would mold the bare fact of his cowardice into an act of reason, color it with plausibility and fitness. But suddenly the words he had chosen deserted him.

"Oh, Caro, Caro," he whispered brokenly, "help me, help me."

And then he told her that they could not be married. For a while Caroline lay quiet in his arms, uttering not a word. Howard began pouring out words of entreaty against the numbness of her mind.

He felt her tremble, shake. She tried to draw away. He held her closer still. "Don't, don't," he pleaded. "I can't lose you. Caro, I can't. Don't turn on me. Don't blame me. I've been through hell. Dad's a devil. He'll persecute us forever if we defy him."

It seemed to Caroline that she had been plunged into a nightmare. All that was clear to her was that Howard was proposing to let her down for no better reason than his fear of disinheritance. He was free—no, he was not free. Dollars shackled him. He was steeped in the worship of Mammon. She could feel a wall of gold rising up between them—or was it on a scale, with her in the balance?

She did not laugh. She did not cry. She simply felt sickened. When she tore herself free of his arms, without violence, but with infinite relief to be beyond the touch of his hands, he sensed the true measure of her reaction. Stark despair strode into his soul.

Caroline sent him away. With words as soft as she could summon because she felt no anger toward him, she told him that he must go. She pitied him, seeing his weakness as she had never seen it before. But it was not the pity that is akin to love. She was glad when the door closed behind him. She did not want to look at him, or think of him. It was as though he took with him the ashes of a fallen idol.

Dry-eyed and calm she went upstairs and told her father what had happened. Her voice was level, cool.

"It wasn't because he said that he couldn't marry me," she said, "but all at once I knew that you and Mother and Macolm, had been right. What love I had left for him died in that moment, when I saw the real Howard."

"What love you had left?" he repeated.

She nodded. "I know—now—that I've been falling in love with him for a long time. He kept me from knowing it with his kindness."

Philip sighed. "I'm glad," he said simply. And then, "I suppose you won't go back to the factory," he added.

Caroline did not answer for a moment. "Why shouldn't I?" she asked finally. "I earn my wages."

"I'd rather you didn't," her father told her.

"Well, I'll look for something else."

But first, there were other things she must do. Heading the list was the necessity of telling Mrs. Stevenson she could not keep her. That astonishing person declared she would stay without pay, at least until Mr. Rutledge was up and around again. Quite without knowing it Caroline had won the lady's heart.

Then came a hard task—to write to Fern that she must let the nurse whom Howard was paying go immediately. Fern promptly wrote back, greatly to Caroline's relief, that she had meant to do this anyhow, as Arthur had got a job at last and they could get along very well without the woman.

"KNOWLEDGE IS POWER!"

Proper Posture Is a Factor in Good Health

Many Constitutional Disorders Are Traceable to Faulty Carriage, Says Authority

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

IN A RECENT pamphlet issued by the New York Academy of Medicine, poor posture is defined as a fault in the disposition of the parts of the body.

Faulty posture is a frequent occurrence in childhood. Doctors who specialize in this work believe that if good posture in childhood could be enforced, many constitutional disorders would be avoided.

Faulty posture can often be traced to negligence in early infancy and childhood. Frequent faulty posture in infancy is allowed to walk too soon. During infancy the body is rapidly growing and the muscles of the legs have not fully developed.

For this reason the infant requires many hours of sleep and rest. To prevent faulty posture, the growing child should not be subjected to undue muscular activity and strain. He should not be permitted to walk until his muscles are strong.

The young mother is always anxious to see her child sit and walk as early as possible. In her eagerness she encourages it. This may prove harmful to the baby learning to walk while the muscles are still undeveloped.

It sometimes leads to congenital defects that bring about faulty posture in later life.

Of course, faulty posture may be the result of rickets, poor hygiene, faulty nutrition, mental overstrain, enlarged tonsils or centers of infection.

TENSION ENDS IN TENNESSEE, SCENE OF RIOT

600 Soldiers May Be Withdrawn; Change of Venue Seen For Negro.

SHELBYVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 21—Orderly quiet, enforced by 600 national guardsmen, prevailed today in Shelbyville, scene of rioting by a lynch-maddened mob in which three white men were killed and the $150,000 Bedford-co courthouse destroyed by fire.

Racial tension that brought a bloody clash between militiamen and the mob or more than 1,500 for possession of a negro prisoner apparently had subsided. Authorities indicated that the troops, rushed here from Nashville when the rioters were in possession of the town, would be withdrawn within 24 hours.

CHANGE TRIAL SCENE

Circuit Judge T. L. Coleman announced that a change of venue will be given the negro, E. K. Harris, 22, with the possibility that his trial will be held in Nashville, where he is now in jail, as a precaution against further violence. Harris is charged with criminally attacking a 14-year-old white girl.

The death toll was raised to three when Clifford Freeman, 45, succumbed to abdominal wounds suffered in repeated mob attacks against the militiamen guarding the courthouse. Raleigh Edwards, 30, and an unidentified man whose body was spirited away and buried were the other fatalities.

Nearly a score were wounded by bullets, bayonets and tear gas bombs, a checkup disclosed.

The national guardsmen on duty had little to do today besides keep their equipment in order, for the town's 5,000 population seemingly had turned to the business of preparing for the Christmas holidays.

Military headquarters were being maintained at the police station.

Residents of the negro quarter, frightened into seclusion during the rioting, were still reluctant to appear on the streets regardless of the absence of any demonstration.

"And is your daughter happily married?"

"Oh, yes; her husband's scared to death of her."

Holiday Sweets

Home-made candies and sweet things express a joyful holiday spirit and the fun of making them should not be overlooked. The youngsters enjoy making their own goodies, and simple candies are not harmful when eaten in moderation and immediately following meals. The thing to avoid is the all-day candy eating that satisfies the appetite and prevents the enjoyment of a normal appetite at meal times.

A garnish for gift cookie boxes and candy boxes that adds greatly to their attractiveness, is the candied grapefruit peel. Divide into three parts, the quantity of peel that you are cooking in the sugar syrup. Add red coloring to one part, green coloring to the second, and leave the third uncolored. When the peel has dried, it will be gay and colorful for decorating food gifts.

Candied Grapefruit Peel

Select fruit with thick clear skins. Peel and cut rind into pieces of uniform size, 2 or 3 inches long and 1/4-inch wide. Cover with cold water, and bring almost to the boiling point, but do not boil. Drain and repeat this process twice again. Add to the peel its own weight in granulated sugar. Cover again with cold water and boil until no syrup shows in the saucepan when it is held to the side. Spread on a buttered platter and, when partly cool, roll in sugar. Use the same method for candying orange peel.

College Fudge

2 C. sugar
3/4 C. milk
2 Tbsp. butter
2 sq. chocolate
2 Tbsp. light corn syrup
1 tsp. vanilla

Cut chocolate into small pieces and combine with the sugar, liquid and syrup. Cook slowly, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Cook until a temperature of 234 degrees is reached, or a soft ball that will hold its shape "orm", when a few drops are put into cold water. Cool until lukewarm (110 degrees), or until the bottom of the pan feels cool when held for several minutes on the palm of the hand. Add vanilla and beat until the fudge has its shiny look, or until a small amount dropped from the spoon will hold its shape. Pour into a greased pan, or knead the fudge and make into rolls, wrap in oiled paper and slice off as needed. Fudge should be smooth in texture and soft enough to cut without breaking. Fudge that is too thin, dries quickly. Sour cream may be used and the liquid and the butter omitted.

Chocolate Dip

1/2 lb. sweet chocolate
1 oz. paraffin
4 C. corn flakes, or raisins, or peanuts

Melt the chocolate and paraffin over hot water. Carefully stir in corn flakes, nuts, or whatever you are dipping. Spread on a wire rack and allow to cool. Separate all flakes or arrange them in clusters. Use more corn flakes if a thin coating of chocolate is desired.

Popcorn Caramel

1 pt. syrup (maple or molasses)
2 Tbsp. butter
1/2 tsp. salt
1 pt. sugar (2 C.)
1 tsp. vinegar
1/2 tsp. soda

Cook syrup, sugar, vinegar and salt to 275 degrees hard ball stage. Add butter, stir in soda and, while foaming, pour over four quarts of freshly popped corn, stirring until the grains are well coated. If maple syrup is used, omit the soda.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

IS ARE HONORED

Twelve youths who "gave their all" for dear old C. H. S. during the past football season and a thirteenth who acted as their manager received letters in a chapel service at the high school Friday morning. The service was presided over by Principal E. I. Gephart.

FOUR GET MEDALS

Four seniors who had previously received letters were given medals showing service; they were George Speakman, Walter Osborn, Joe Bell and Bob Watts—Other seniors receiving awards were Roderick Watts, Ned Plum, George Roth and Otis Mader—Juniors were Willard Friley, Fred Grant and John Griffith, and sophomores included Norman Coleman and Don Henry. No freshmen were granted letters—Horace Gilmore received the manager's award.

VISIT CHILLICOTHE

The Tiger cage quintet is going to Chillicothe tonight in a confident but not cocky mood. It has been a long while since a Circleville team has beaten a Chillicothe aggregation but the locals are believed to have a good chance to turn the trick this evening—Coach Herberholz' starting lineup will probably include the usual five Henry, Kirwin, Grant, Speakman and John Jenkins—Fritz Mackey of Wesleyan is the referee.

N. HOLLAND AND SCIOTO TANGLE

New Holland boys won but Scioto-tpw girls turned the tables to the other side when the cage teams of the two schools tangled at Commercial Point Thursday evening. Coach Shadel Saunders' team was victorious 40 to 22 but the girls piloted by Coach John Barcklow won 19-7 for Scioto. Ebers was high for the winning girls.

OHIO CAGERS BUSY

By International News Service Ohio college basketball teams today were cleaning up their schedules for the Christmas vacation.

In a series of games last night, Ohio University trimmed Marietta, 39 to 17, Toledo turned back Denison, 26 to 19 and Kent State bested Fenn college, 27 to 22. An overtime session was necessary to decide the Bowling Green-Ashland tilt, but the B-G's finally came out of the game with a 39 to 35 advantage. Xavier met and conquered Kentucky Wesleyan, 41 to 22 and Akron Goodyear defeated Miami, a Buckeye conference team, 35 to 29. Wittenberg again was on the wrong end of a decision, suffering a 47 to 33 defeat at the hands of George Washington.

Most of the collegiate squads will be idle during the holidays, from Saturday until the first of the year.

STAR CAGERS WITH COLLEGE COURT SQUAD

Hunt, Starrett, Others Play Against Club Christmas Night; Prelim Booked.

A real team of stars is being brought here by Curly Griffin of Bliss college Christmas night to combat the Circleville Athletic club aggregation.

Griffin will have Barney Hunt, known better as a golfer but a fine basketball player; Bob Starrett, former Columbus East star; Clarence Towler, Dana Desher, Sheets and Lank Ferguson. Several other star performers are expected to be in the Bliss lineup.

The lineup of the Club team has not yet been ascertained. Judy Gordon, who is running the team, may start Barnes at center, Steele and Vierebome at forwards, and will pair himself with Carl Purcell at guards. This would leave Boyce Parks and Bill Hezicle ready for action at any time. Vierebome will be here during the holidays while his school at Dalton is closed.

The preliminary will see the Emory club comprised of former high school athletes and coached by Cuzz Dumm taking on the Williamsport Independents, Andy Anderson, Huiley and several other well known cagers of the Williamsport district are included in their lineup.

Johnny Heiskell will handle the whistle for both games.

GOPHERS HONORED

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 21—Minnesota today had possession of the Knute Rockne memorial trophy, awarded annually to the acknowledged national football champions.

The plaque was awarded between halves of the Minnesota-Carleton basketball game last night, which the Minnesota quintet won by a 34 to 26 score. Prof. Frank Dickinson of the University of Illinois, whose rating system was used to determine the winner, presented the trophy while 6,500 persons looked on.

In his address Prof. Dickinson said "the trophy symbolizes that the University of Minnesota has overcome stronger opposition than any other team in the United States."

BIRDS GET TWO

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21—A new pitcher and a new infielder, both formerly of the Greensboro, N. C. club of the Piedmont league, today had been added to the 1935 roster of the Columbus Red Birds, American Association champions.

The pitcher is Dick Newsome, of Ashokle, N. C., former baseball star at Wake Forest College. Last year he made a record of 10 victories and 10 defeats, regarded a creditable standing as Greensboro was in last place in the Piedmont circuit.

Sam Narron, a third baseman, was farmed out last season to Martinsville, Va., in the Bistate league where he hit 400 most of the season. His home is in Middlesex, N. C.

Big Small Bore Man

Selected by the National Rifle Association as America's outstanding small bore rifleman, Sam Bond, of New Philadelphia, O., wears a modest victory smile.

PAUL DEAN WEDS CAMPUS BEAUTY

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark., Dec. 21—Another chapter in the career of Paul "Duffy" Dean, pitching ace of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, began today.

Dean and his bride, the former Miss Dorothy Sandusky, beautiful 19-year-old Arkansas Polytechnic college co-ed, were en route to Gulfport, Miss., and Florida on an automobile honeymoon trip.

After a two months' courtship the couple were married at the bride's home here last night with the Rev. Homer W. Haislip of the First Christian church performing the ceremony. Woody Mayes, local cafe operator, was the best man.

Paul wore a suit he had purchased on a flying trip yesterday afternoon to Fort Smith where he bought at the wedding ring. Hurrying back he secured the wedding license in Ozark.

Although Paul had known his bride for two years he didn't really start "going with her" until he returned from the world series victory over Detroit last fall.

At Gulfport the couple will meet "Dizzy" Dean and his wife and the four will continue to Florida to spend the winter.

CHIEF SUSPENDS VETERAN FIREMAN

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21—O. L. Rodgers, battalion chief of the fire department where he has been connected for 26 years, has been suspended for conduct, unbecoming an officer, and "deceiving" the fire chief.

An argument in one of the engine houses in which profanity reigned is the basis for the charges.

Have you forgotten to answer that letter from your local tuberculosis association? Why not find the letter today, send in your check and start using the Christmas Seals?

Hopes to Swim Again

Quintuplets' Doctor In Big City

Forests and quiet country roads are the natural environment of Dr. Allan Roy Daffoe, who brought into the world at Corbair, Ont. the famous Dionne quintuplets. Here is the doctor, left, with the tall spires of Manhattan in the background, arriving in New York City for the second time in 26 years to tell how he kept the little girls alive through the hardships of their early months.

PLANS OF COMMITTEE MAY CONTROL INSURGENTS

FOUR-TO-ONE HOUSE RATIO

Trouble In Next Congress Easily Averted, Leaders Declare, By Action.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—Sweeping reorganization of congressional committees, which will strike a blow at insurgent Democrats and make the Republicans

"harmless," was being drawn by Democratic leaders today. With huge majorities in both senate and house, the reorganization is expected to vastly increase the Democratic majority on all important committees.

The program would effectively prevent an alliance between minority Republicans and the insurgents to block administration measures. It would give President Roosevelt an unbreakable hold on congress.

Rep. Joseph Byrns of Tennessee, next speaker of the house, favors revision of all house committees and increase of Democratic membership. Senate Democrats are urging a similar program upon Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas, majority leader.

The house plan calls for a ratio of four Democrats to one Republican on committees. The senate ratio may be three to one.

"The Democrats have three-fourths of the house membership," said Byrns. "Members are entitled to committee representation and the committees should fairly represent the house. It seems to me that it would be fair to increase the Democratic membership and I personally favor that plan. I shall urge it upon the house."

ELIMINATION ASKED FOR R. R. CROSSING

CLEVELAND, Dec. 21—Elimination of 240,000 railroad grade crossings in the United States by the federal government was urged as a relief measure here today by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

The plan was announced when the C. of C. directors approved a report by the chamber's transportation committee declaring that if the federal government is to undertake heavier expenditures for work relief it should follow the grade-crossing elimination channel.

"Such improvements would result in permanent improvement available to the people as a whole, would aid industry where aid is most needed, and would provide for the quickest possible employment of large numbers of men," the report said.

BALED HAY BURNS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21—A great quantity of baled hay stored under the Pennsylvania railroad at the state fair grounds was destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon. Men sleeping in the warm hay are believed to have started the blaze which resulted in a 2-alarm call.

Although the season is well advanced, no seasonal radiator alcohol drinking parties have been chronicled in the public prints.

FIGHT CONTINUED TO SAVE SHANK

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 21.—A last minute fight to save Mark Shank, Akron, O., attorney, from the electric chair Dec. 28, was in progress here today with the invocation of an old law which provides that convicts who have become insane shall be transferred to the state hospital until they have regained sanity. Shank is under death sentence for the "picnic poisoning" of a family of four Ohioans in this state last year.

W. T. Pate, Jr., and Robert Brown, counsel for Shank awaited today a reply from penitentiary officials to their request for Shank's transfer. Walter Helms of Texarkana, chairman of the state penal board, obtained an opinion on the case from Assistant Attorney General Pat McHaffey. The latter said the old law did not apply to convicts under death sentence.

OTTO TO RESIGN?

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21—Walter E. Otto, city auditor for the last 13 years, who was convicted of embezzling city funds by a common pleas court jury, today was expected to announce whether or not he will resign from the post.

A motion for a new trial was expected to be filed on behalf of the city auditor by tomorrow morning. Defense Attorney Wilbur King denied reports that Otto would refuse to carry the case to the court of appeals if the new trial motion is overruled.

DERN FAVORS SCIOTO WORK

Believe Conservancy Program Will Be Included In 1935 Budget.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21—Increased optimism for the possible approval of the $36,000,000 Scioto-Sandusky water conservation plan as a PWA project in 1935 was felt here today by officials of the conservancy district as Secretary of War George S. Dern gave his official approval of the program.

Dern included the Scioto-Sandusky project in his report to President Roosevelt outlining an $8,000,000,000 nation-wide flood, drought and soil erosion control program as approved by Army engineers.

Dern's approval came on the heels of an announcement from Washington by Congressman A. P. Lamneck, Franklin-co., that Harold Ickes, national director of the PWA, had unofficially expressed his commendation of the project.

Meanwhile, Alan Jordan, executive secretary of the conservancy district, declared that the preliminary survey being made of 10 dam sites in the Scioto and Sandusky Rivers was rapidly nearing completion, and probably would be ready for submission to PWA officials in Washington shortly after Jan. 1.

The project, if completed, will provide a chain of lakes along the two rivers from Lake Erie to the Ohio River and provide 17 central Ohio counties with flood and drought protection.

PICK M'COMBS TO PLAN DAVEY PARTY JAN. 14

First Inaugural Ball Since 1921 Planned for Governor-elect

MANY TO ATTEND

Details In Hands of Ravenna Man

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21.—Plans for the inauguration of Martin L. Davey as governor of Ohio moved forward here today with the announcement of the appointment of John S. McCombs, Ravenna businessman and close personal friend of the governor-elect, as general chairman of the inaugural ceremonies.

The ceremonies, which are to be marked by an inaugural ball for the first time since 1921, will be held in Columbus at high noon January 14. Plans are, according to McCombs, to make it "a fitting memorial to a great Democratic victory."

CEREMONIES STUDIED

Details for the inaugural ceremonies will be worked out within the next few days by McCombs who will announce committees for the various plans. Officials at Democratic state headquarters here expect a "great outpouring" of voters to witness Davey's induction into office.

"It is our desire," McCombs said today, "to properly celebrate induction into office of the people's choice for governor."

The oath of office will be administered to Davey by Chief Justice Carl V. Weigand of the Ohio Supreme court. Following the induction of the governor into office, a reception will be held in the rotunda of the state house.

FOLLOWED BY BALL

The inaugural ceremonies will be tapered off at night with a press smoker followed by an elaborate inaugural ball to be held in the Memorial Hall here. A festive banquet will be held the following night.

WOMAN, 19, JAILED FOR TAKING CHILD

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 21.—Charged with snatching a four-day-old infant from the arms of its mother in a kidnapping attempt, Mrs. Dorothy Marsh, 19, was held in the city prison here today, unable to provide $5,000 bond.

Mrs. Marsh was arrested when Mrs. Joseph Robbins, 25, wife of a FERA worker, reported that her infant son had been kidnapped by a woman who posed as a social worker. When detectives rushed into Mrs. Marsh's room at a boarding house, she maintained for some time that she was the mother of the infant she held in her arms.

The snatching of the infant, police said, was part of a plan by Mrs. Marsh to affect a reconciliation with her husband, Porter Marsh, who is confined in a Plymouth, Ind., hospital with injuries suffered in an automobile accident.

SALT CREEK-TWP WOMAN CALLED

Mrs. Gettie Imbler, 55, wife of Albert Imbler, died suddenly Thursday of angina pectoris at her home in Salt Creek township near Whisler.

She leaves in addition to the husband, two daughters, Mrs. Grace Heskett of Akron and Mrs. Gladie Petty of Columbus. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 2 p. m. at the Presbyterian church in Whisler, officiating Rev. Forester of Kingston, officiating. Burial will be in the Whisler cemetery by H. E. Deffenbaugh and Son.

TAKES NEW POST

Mrs. William G. Baker (Virginia Hay), who has been connected with the Pickaway-co farm bureau for more than 15 years, has accepted a position in Columbus in the employ of Guy Dowdy, former Pickaway-co farm agent. Mr. Dowdy is now compliance agent for Ohio under the A. A. A. program.

HALF MILLION LOST IN FIRE

Lucas-Co Armory Destroyed; Equipment Provides Greatest Damage.

TOLEDO, Dec. 21.—Fire causing damage estimated at more than $500,000 today swept through the Lucas-co armory, located only two blocks from the heart of Toledo's business section.

A possible major explosion was averted by prompt action of firemen. Fourteen companies of the Toledo fire department poured streams of water into the blazing building, in which approximately one million dollars worth of Ohio National guard ammunition and equipment were stored.

Shortly before 11 a. m., after several hours of fighting the blaze, firemen brought the flames under control.

The building, a squat two-story brick and wood structure covering half a city block, was badly damaged by the flames but by far the heaviest loss was to the equipment stored inside.

At least half of the roof of the building was burned off. Fire Chief Fred Myers of Toledo, who took personal charge of the forces combating the fire, expressed belief the blaze broke out as the result of a cigarette carelessly dropped by a spectator at a wrestling match staged in the armory last night.

Myers said an exact accounting of the damage would be impossible until a close checkup could be made of damage to equipment.

Captain C. E. Rowe of the Ohio National guard, who is in charge of the building, expressed fear the damage might run over a half million dollars.

Although water was poured into the building in time to prevent the ammunition from exploding, it was believed that the guns and ammunition were damaged badly by the water.

The building contained equipment estimated to be worth approximately $1,000,000. It included clothing, motor cars, 1,300 rifles, 1,000 pistols, 4, 6, and 8-inch guns, three 75-millimeter guns, and 1,500 uniforms.

The armory, built in 1891, is insured for $135,000, said to be 90 per cent of its appraisal value.

DOCTOR'S MACHINE WRECKED BY POLE

Dr. D. V. Courtwright narrowly escaped serious injury Thursday evening when his Ford coupe skidded off the road near the Sturm-Dillard gravel washer and struck a telephone pole.

The Courtwright machine was badly wrecked.

Dr. Courtwright was driving toward this city when the accident happened. He was alone.

INVENTORIES FILED

Inventories in the estates of the late Cary Brown and Mrs. Jennie L. Tipton, both Decree-creek-twp residents, were on file in probate court today.

The Brown estate, according to the appraisers, C. D. Brunner, George P. Foreman and Edward C. Rector, is worth $22,574.28 of which $20,855.14 is real estate. Mrs. Emma Brown, his widow, is the executrix.

WELL KNOWN WOMAN BADLY HURT IN FALL

Mrs. Lemuel James Suffered Fractured Left Hip In Fall Down Stairs

INJURY PAINFUL ONE

Hunting for Light Switch To Bedroom

Mrs. Lemuel B. James, 124 W. Mound-st., suffered painful and serious injuries Thursday about 6 p. m. when she fell six steps from the upstairs to the first landing at her home.

She has a badly fractured left hip.

Mrs. James was alone in her home when she started upstairs. For some reason she snapped off the light when she started to climb the stairs. After reaching the top she started to search for the button to turn on the light in her bedroom and in shuffling through the dark lost her sense of direction and fell down the stairway.

Had she remained on the landing where she fell the injury would not have been considered so serious but she managed to crawl to a telephone where she summoned Dr. Howard Jones. In crawling she aggravated the injury.

She was taken to Berger hospital Friday morning for an X-ray then was returned to her home.

"SANTA CLAUS" FETE MONDAY

Legion Makes Definite Plans For Christmas Tree; Rotary Obtains Funds.

The annual community Christmas tree fete sponsored by Howard Hall post American Legion aided by the Rotary club will be held Monday evening at the court house. Funds have been solicited and candy will be provided for all small children of the city.

A real Santa Claus will be there, too, so it promises to be a big evening.

Henry Mason is chairman of the affair and on his committee are Bryan Custer, Charles Radcliff, Fred Dauenhauer and James Cook. This committee urged today that all Legionnaires and Rotarians come early in order to assist in putting on the good time for the kiddies.

Miss Mary Pickens ably did the solicitation work which was under the direction of the Rotary club.

WILLIAMSPORT MUTE SUCCUMBS

Alvin Peter Ecord, 83, a native of Decree-creek-twp, died at Berger hospital Thursday at 8 p. m. of complications after an operation.

Mr. Ecord was a mute.

He was one of four children of Dr. Peter and Elizabeth J. Davis Ecord. A half sister, Mrs. Lloyd McLean of New York, survives.

Mr. Ecord was well educated despite his handicap. He studied at the Columbus school for the deaf and dumb and was a skilled mechanic. He was well known in Williamsport where he made his home.

The funeral will be Saturday at 10 a. m. at the Hill funeral home with burial in Springlawn cemetery.

MUHLENBERG-TWP OFFICIALS SHOW CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

Muhlenberg-twp has a real Christmas spirit.

After the Christmas program at the school Friday afternoon every child was treated with a sack of candy, nuts and orange. The plan was followed out to be certain that no child was without a Christmas of some kind.

Public-spirited citizens who were responsible were Zeb Smith, justice of the peace; Frank Beatty, township clerk; Cecil Reid, president of the board of education, and Ambrose Moul, Gilbert Crawford and Milton Fullen, trustees.

These men solicited the entire township and collected $39.75 with which they purchased 275 pounds of candy, 75 pounds of nuts and 300 oranges.

Ace Cuts Two Hours Off Miami-Chicago Air Trip

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—Less than eight hours separated Miami, Fla., and Chicago today with establishment of a new transport plane record by Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker at the controls of a big Douglas monoplane of the Eastern Air lines.

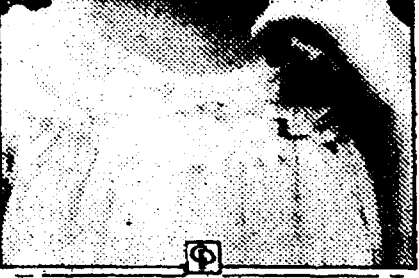

The war-time ace flew thirteen passengers here from Miami last evening in 7 hours and 40 minutes to inaugurate the Eastern Air lines' daily nine hour service between Miami and Chicago.

Capt. Rickenbacker's flying time cut two hours and 20 minutes from the former transport record. A blinding snowstorm that forced the plane to "fly blind" for the last 130 miles obscured the boundary lights of Chicago airport as the big plane came to an easy landing.

Thirteen passengers made the trip with Capt. Rickenbacker.

During most of the flight the monoplane remained at an altitude of 12,000 feet. One stop was made for fuel, when the plane halted in Atlanta for 25 minutes.

SECOND INSULL IS AWAITING JURY VERDICT AFTER TRIAL

Cecilia Murray

You probably will be seeing a lot of cute little Cecilia Murray on the movie screen in the near future. Four-year-old Cecilia won the juvenile division of the screen talent hunt in New York City, and now she is headed for Hollywood.

SOVIET TO EXILE FORMER LEADERS

WARSAW, Dec. 21.—Exile faces Gregory Zinoviev and Lev Kameney, one-time leaders of the Bolshevik regime, who are under arrest in Moscow in connection with the recent assassination of Sergei M. Kirov, it was learned here today.

The two old guard Bolsheviks were seized Wednesday night, together with four or five other prominent party leaders whose names have not been made known.

The prisoners will be tried, and if convicted will be sent abroad, just as Leon Trotsky was banished for his opposition to the Stalin regime.

It is the policy of the Soviet government not to execute important members or ex-members of the Communist party.

New Teacher Named

Gilbert Wiseman, of Lancaster, has been employed by the New Holland board of education to succeed Earle F. Claiborne, resigned, as eighth grade teacher of the schools of that village.

Mr. Wiseman, who is unmarried, is a graduate of the Capital university, Columbus.

Mr. Claiborne has accepted a position as district manager for an insurance company.

Convicts Who Withstood 'T. B.' Germs Gain Liberty

DENVER, Dec. 21.—Two Colorado convicts, released from prison on Christmas paroles because of their services to humanity in allowing their bodies to be used in testing a serum designed to prevent tuberculosis, were on their way to a new life "outside" today.

Carl Erickson, 64, Swedish-born mining engineer, who served 19 years of a life sentence for the murder of his wife, stopped over in Denver last night while on his way to the mountains near Fort Collins, where he will start work on developing a gold vein he claims to have discovered before he went to prison. County Judge Kent L. Eldred of Canon City is grubstaking the venture.

"Ya, I'm going up to that mine and I'll maybe get rich," he said. "I studied mining in Sweden and I know good ore when I see it. I was only a kid then but I saw that vein. Never did I tell about it but always I think and dream about it. I'll be rich yet, you see if that's not right."

Mike Schmidt, Russian-born, German farmer, was so excited over his release Thursday he was unable to sign his name. He has

Named Despite Debts

Allan F. Ayers

Objection has been raised to the appointment of Allan F. Ayers, above, as state superintendent of banks in Ohio by Governor-elect Martin L. Davey. Ayers, a former vice president of the defunct Guardian Trust Co., of Cleveland, owes the bank approximately $41,000, while an industrial railroad of which Ayers was a director owed the same bank $183,950 and its president owed approximately $28,418 at the time the bank closed. Governor-elect Davey and corporations which he heads owed the bank approximately $195,000—but he says this is covered by 150 per cent.

GEHRES HEADS FARM CENSUS

Chillicothe Man To Direct Work In This District; To Appoint Aides.

Edwin C. Gehres, of Chillicothe, has been appointed district supervisor for the 1935 farm census, the census bureau has announced.

Gehres will be in charge of a number of counties including Pickaway-co. It is believed he will announce the census takers for each county as soon as appointments are made.

The farm census is scheduled to get under way January 2. Seven supervisors in all will direct the work in Ohio which is expected to be completed within a month's time. About 836 enumerators will work under the supervisors in taking the census.

Pickaway-co is to have eight enumerators including William H. Hulse, Jackson-twp.; C. O. Smith, Madison-twp.; J. M. Tootle, Monroe-twp.; Jesse Pitt, Muhlenberg-twp.; Wilbur V. Pontius, Pickaway-twp.; William Beavers, Scioto-twp. and William Good, Washington-twp. if the recommendation of the Pickaway-co Democratic executive committee is followed.

PLAN NIGHT SCHOOL

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21.—Detailed plans for night schools for adult farmers throughout the state were being worked out here today at a conference of 130 teachers from 60 counties meeting under the supervision of the state relief commission which is sponsoring the statewide program.

Climaxing the five-day meeting, Prof. H. C. Ramsower, chief of the Ohio State University's agricultural extension service, was to address the teachers on "The Philosophy of Agricultural Adjustment."

The so-called training conference was held, an announcement by the relief commission said, to advance the program for instruction of adults in emergency school classes directed by instructors in rural economics and recreation. Each class will meet three hours one evening over a period of at least 12 weeks, it was said.

CONVICT GIVEN PAROLE HEARING

Curtis Walton, of Lancaster, who is now serving three concurrent sentences in the Ohio penitentiary for forcing the sale of the S. C. Grant coal office, for breaking and entering and for auto theft, will be given a parole hearing Feb. 1, D. J. Bonzo, the prison's record clerk, announced today.

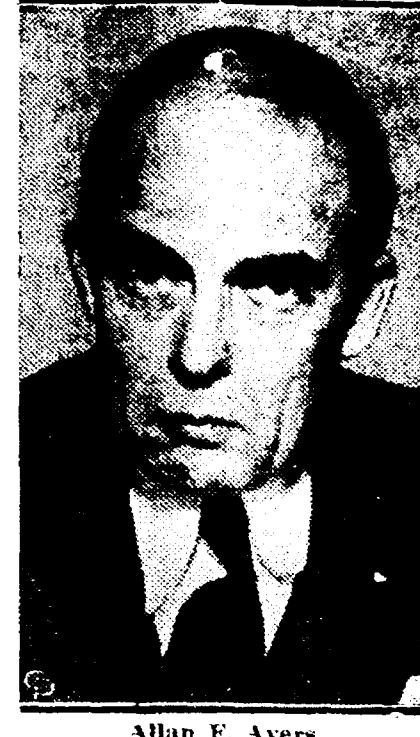

Walton was arrested with Leo Alexander for the Grant robbery. Walton is a "second timer."

MAN FREED FROM PRISON THURSDAY IS AGAIN IN JAIL

Clarence Floyd, of Turlington, who was released Thursday from the Ohio penitentiary on parole after a forgery charge, was in jail Friday after being arrested for intoxication and disorderly conduct.

It is probable he will be returned to prison.

THREE CENTS

PLAN NIGHT SCHOOL

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21.—Detailed plans for night schools for adult farmers throughout the state were being worked out here today at a conference of 130 teachers from 60 counties meeting under the supervision of the state relief commission which is sponsoring the statewide program.

Climaxing the five-day meeting, Prof. H. C. Ramsower, chief of the Ohio State University's agricultural extension service, was to address the teachers on "The Philosophy of Agricultural Adjustment."

The so-called training conference was held, an announcement by the relief commission said, to advance the program for instruction of adults in emergency school classes directed by instructors in rural economics and recreation. Each class will meet three hours one evening over a period of at least 12 weeks, it was said.

CONVICT GIVEN PAROLE HEARING

Curtis Walton, of Lancaster, who is now serving three concurrent sentences in the Ohio penitentiary for forcing the sale of the S. C. Grant coal office, for breaking and entering and for auto theft, will be given a parole hearing Feb. 1, D. J. Bonzo, the prison's record clerk, announced today.

Walton was arrested with Leo Alexander for the Grant robbery. Walton is a "second timer."

MAN FREED FROM PRISON THURSDAY IS AGAIN IN JAIL

Clarence Floyd, of Turlington, who was released Thursday from the Ohio penitentiary on parole after a forgery charge, was in jail Friday after being arrested for intoxication and disorderly conduct.

It is probable he will be returned to prison.

He was arrested by city officers.

LINER CRASHES KILLING SEVEN FOUND IN MUD

Big Airplane, Owned by Dutch, Believed Hit by Lightning

IN SYRIAN DESERT

Australian Ace After Record Today

CAIRO, Dec. 21.—Twenty-five airplanes that scoured the storm-soaked Syrian desert for the missing "flying hotel" that placed second in the London-Melbourne air race found it today—a charred wreck, its seven occupants killed.

A detachment of the British Royal Air force risked their own lives in landing in the mud near the wreck, but the heat of the still-smouldering wreckage was too great for them to approach close enough to remove the bodies.

HIT BY LIGHTNING?

Fliers who participated in the discovery expressed the belief that the big American-built Douglas transport had either been hit by lightning or forced down in the storm shortly after she sent out her last wireless message—which indicated no trouble—early Wednesday morning.

The scene of the tragedy was ten miles south of Hama, Syria, one of the few waterways in the barren stretch west of Baghdad. The British army maintains a small garrison there.

Twenty-four R. A. F. planes and one French commercial plane aided in the hunt.

Officials of the KLM, the Dutch airline—which had been in the famous plane on a round trip, and Iraq authorities at Baghdad immediately after the wreck.

The ill-fated plane carried a crew of four and three passengers.

SMITH AFTER RECOVERED UNION AIR TRANSPORT

bank, Cal., Dec. 21.—Sir Kingsford Smith, who "broke" the Trans-Pacific Airways between Australia and the United States, today took off from what may become an attempt to break the existing air record between Los Angeles and New York.

Smith, accompanied by Harry Walker, a California ranchman, left the field at 4:58 a. m. P. S. T.

The big Lockheed Altair plane, "Lady Southern Cross," which carried Smith on his last Trans-Pacific flight, carried 300 gallons of gasoline for its 700-horsepower wasp motor.

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—David L. Behncke, airline pilot's association president, and his co-pilot, Kenneth Quayle, lay in Hinsdale sanitarium suffering from injuries incurred when their United Air line plane crashed in a blinding snowstorm.

The storm, lasting several hours and covering a wide area of the Great Lakes region, swelled the all-time record December snow fall here to 23 inches.

Pilot Behncke attempted to set the plane down on an emergency landing field when motor trouble developed last night, but the blinding wall of snow caused the plane to crash into a tree in the residential section of suburban Western Springs.

The plane, carrying express but no passengers, had just taken off from Chicago airport for Omaha, Neb.

WIDOW OF WAR VETERAN DIES

Mrs. Laura May Vale, 33, widow of Lloyd Vale, a World War veteran, died Friday morning in Athens state hospital.

She was born April 25, 1901 a daughter of John C. and Ella May Saunders.

She is survived by three children—Anna Lorraine, Estella May and Bertha Louise, all living here. Two sisters, Mrs. Hettie Brown of this city and Mrs. Ada Atkinson of New Cumberland, W. Va., also survive.

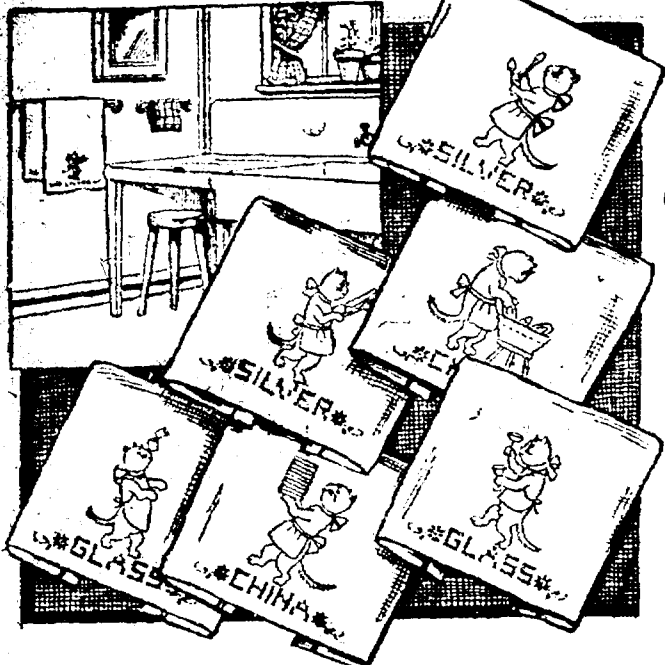

The funeral will be Monday at 10:30 a. m. at the North end Mission with burial in Forest cemetery by M. S. Rinehart.

PAROLE OF PERRY DELAYED TO 1936

Frank Perry, Londoner who was sentenced to the Ohio penitentiary after pleading guilty to a statutory charge involving a Perry-twp. youth, will have to wait until Dec. 1936 for a parole hearing.

These Kitten Towels are Fun to Do

PATTERN 5200

If you are fond of kittens, you know how cute they can be! However, you will probably be much interested in their helpful antics on these gay towels. Let them help you make that dish-washing task a more pleasant one and at the same time brighten your kitchen with their gay colors. You can do them in one or many colors. Such simple stitches as outline, single and cross stitch are needed to embroider them.

In Pattern 5200 you will find a transfer pattern of six different motifs averaging 6x7 inches; illustrations of all stitches used, and material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main-st., Circleville, O.

SHIP, TOSSED BY OCEAN ON WAY TO PORT

Own Sailors Make Repairs To Steering Apparatus; Guard Is Convoys.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 — After having been buffeted mercilessly by mountainous seas and almost abandoned yesterday when her steering gear became broken, the Severance of the Diamond line, a 4,993 ton freighter, was on her way to her home port of Boston under her own power early today.

The ship, bound from Norfolk to Boston, ran into difficulties off Fire island and a call for aid was sent out by her crew of 41 men.

The coast guard cutter Champlain was sent to her assistance and made repeated efforts to attach a tow line to the freighter, but towering seas prevented this. Finally, in desperation, the vessel's crew took matters into their own hands and succeeded in patching up the steering apparatus sufficiently well to enable them to proceed toward New York at the slow speed of 6 knots an hour, with the Champlain acting as a convoy.

At 4 a. m. today, however, the master of the freighter and crew, after having worked steadily for almost 24 hours, decided sufficient repairs had been made to enable the ship to proceed safely to Boston. Advised of this, the Champlain left the freighter and continued to New York.

With the Severance apparently past danger, radio dispatches here indicated the 414-ton trawler Widgdon, out of Brooklyn, was in distress 100 miles east of Boston.

The Widgdon, which carries a crew of 22 men, advised shore stations she was at the mercy of heavy seas with a broken pump and engine trouble and was urgently in need of a tow.

GIRL, 10, SUFFERS TENTH FRACTURE

MUSKEGON, Mich., Dec. 21.—Ten-year-old Dorothy Smith, whose bones are so fragile they snap under any unusual strain, will spend her second consecutive Christmas in a hospital with a fractured leg.

She has averaged one broken leg or arm each year of her life. Her right leg was broken at birth, and set when she was four days old.

Since then she has suffered two fractures of the right leg; two fractures of the left leg; four fractures of the right arm; and one broken ankle.

Physicians have been unable to diagnose with certainty the strange condition which makes her bones as brittle as pieces of glass tubing. A person of ordinary strength could break any bone in the little girl's body with his fingers, the physicians say.

Dorothy, despite her misfortune and the poverty of her family, which is dependent upon welfare agencies, maintains a cheerful outlook on life.

She took her latest broken leg with philosophic calm. But her ten previous experiences had taught her what to expect when the doctor set the limb, and for the first time she asked for an anesthetic.

"I want to go to sleep first," she said.

$500,000,000 due to be paid the United States on one day, registered wholesale default.

Half a century ago it was different.

William D. Delley, of Pennsylvania, speaking on the floor of the House, in December, 1874, said:

"Why, sir, foreign debt, carrying gold interest, is what is crushing the hearts and hopes and undermining the morals of the laboring people of our country. It is that indebtedness which is filling the almshouses with people skilled in many industries and eager to toil for their living. It is that foreign debt, the annual gold indebtedness for interest on the principal, that is stripping the thrifty and industrious laborer of his earnings hoarded through years in the saving banks."

Most coveted of all White House invitations are those to Mrs. Roosevelt's Sunday night suppers. She scrambles the eggs herself in a huge chafing-dish. Usually only about a dozen people are invited.

The state horseshoe table in the White House usually seats only ninety. But this year an M-shaped arrangement has been worked out whereby it will seat 103.

White House invitations are sent out by the wife of a rear-admiral, Mrs. Edith Benham Helm, who acts as social secretary. They are delivered by special messengers—never mailed. Mrs. Helm also served as secretary to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson.

Of the state receptions, the most popular is that to the Diplomats which this year falls on January 3.

Receptions to Congress and the Army and Navy are the most crowded and least popular.

At a State Dinner the guests are lined up in advance by stiff, uniformed military and naval aides. Should a guest step out of the line, Mrs. Delley, who is the White House's "social secretary," is the one to see that the guest is properly seated.

At a State Dinner the guests are lined up in advance by stiff, uniformed military and naval aides. Should a guest step out of line to meet an old friend he is hurriedly shooed back into place. Following the line-up the guests march in to greet the President and his wife, and thence into dinner. No one is supposed to decline a White House invitation except in the case of illness or emergency. Nevertheless many do even at the last moment. The Vice-President's Dinner is an innovation created because of the "precedence war" started by Dolly Curtis Gann. The Speaker's Dinner was started because Uncle Joe Cannon objected to taking a place after the Cabinet at the Cabinet Dinner. (Copyright, 1933, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON GRANGE ENJOYS CHRISTMAS PARTY

About eighty members of Washington Grange enjoyed their annual Christmas party Thursday evening in the Washington township school auditorium, which was beautifully decorated in the holiday colors.

A short business session preceded the merry hours. Plans were made for the grange's annual banquet Friday, Dec. 28, at 6:30 p. m. Mrs. Stanley Glick is chairman of the affair and will be assisted by Miss Ruth DeLong and Thomas Heffner. Miss Alma Glick is chairman of the dining room.

The program was opened with several readings including "Christmas Is Coming" by David Bolender; "Why the Chimes Rang" by Mrs. M. J. Valentine; and "Remember This Winter Sport, Seeing Nellie Home" by E. F. Leist.

A play "Coming Home for Christmas" was presented by Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Heffner, Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Stout and sons, Jackie and Billy, Miss Alma Glick, Ralph DeLong, Arthur Leist, Miss Alma Groce, Mrs. Byron Bolender and Miss Martha Bolender.

A contest "Decorating a Living Christmas Tree" followed and a quartet comprised of Charles Walters, Thomas Heffner, Ruth DeLong and Mrs. Merle Bowman sang Christmas carols.

After the exchange of gifts around a prettily lighted Christmas tree a lunch in keeping with the season was served.

MISS EICHINGER SINGS IN COLLEGE SERVICE

Miss Evelyn Eichinger of this city, a senior at Ohio university, Athens, sang in the French and Latin carol service at the university just prior to the Christmas recess given by L'Alliance Francaise, French club at the college. Appropriate lantern slides and backgrounds added much to the effectiveness of the singing of the old carols.

Miss Eichinger is a member of Kappa Delta Pi, honorary educational fraternity, University Choir, the Senior Women's Council and Alpha Gamma Delta, national social sorority.

Also of interest locally concerning Ohio university is the pledging of James' Chicote of Kingston by Delta Pi Alpha, honorary physical education fraternity. He is a senior in the College of Education at the school.

TELEPHONE CO. EMPLOYEES ENJOY BANQUET THURSDAY

Seventy nine employees of The Citizens Telephone Co. and The Buckeye Lake Home Telephone Co. of Baltimore enjoyed a Christmas party and campaign banquet at the Pickaway Country club Thursday evening.

The party was a delightful social affair. The club house was beautifully decorated with the holiday colors and symbols including a large Christmas tree prettily lighted and trimmed. Santa Claus in the person of Kirby Gearhart of Stoutsville distributed gifts to all which were later donated to the Community Christmas Fund committee.

The dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock at attractively appointed tables. Following the gay dinner hour games and contests and several musical numbers were enjoyed.

Hiltaire Haacker, this city, played accordion and harmonica selections and Miss Helen Spitzer and Miss Ruth Gaskell of Baltimore entertained with a piano solo and a whistling solo, respectively.

This affair also closed a service selling campaign for these two companies. Grand prizes were awarded as follows:

Miss Mary Howard of the local company, first prize for ladies; Miss Clara Price of The Buckeye Lake Co., second for ladies; G. H. Brintlinger of the local company, first for men, and Bundy Hendrix, of the local company, second for men.

Both companies have had a very large increase in business due to the efforts of the employees in cooperation with the New Business department. The Citizens Co. has made a net gain in subscribers so far this year of 193 stations.

CHRISTMAS PARTY ENJOYED BY PYTHIAN SISTERS

A Christmas party was enjoyed by Majors' temple Pythian Sisters Thursday evening following the regular meeting.

During a short business period an auditing committee was appointed including Miss Alice Wilson, Mrs. Loring Evans and Miss Virginia Marion.

Plans were also discussed for the next meeting Jan. 3 at which time newly elected officers will be installed. Mrs. George Valentine was named chairman of the covered-dish lunch to be served after the session.

After the business the group gathered around a prettily trimmed and lighted Christmas tree and sang carols. Mrs. Fred Brown as Santa Claus distributed gifts. Holiday colors and symbols decorated the tables which were lighted with red tapers for the lunch served by Mrs. James Carpenter, Misses Clara and Florence Lathouse and Mrs. Gilbert Edgington. About forty members were present.

DANCE TICKETS ON SALE AT EBERT'S

The tickets for the annual Mistletoe dance Wednesday Dec. 26 at Memorial hall will be on sale all day Saturday, Monday and Wednesday at Ebert's Soda Grill for those who desire to purchase them at this time.

Proceeds from the dance as in previous years will be given to charity. Miss Evelyn Adkins is chairman of the affair.

Ralph Lloyd and his eleven piece orchestra will furnish the music from 10 until 2 o'clock. Members of the Legion Auxiliary will serve the lunch.

BIBLE CLASS CHRISTMAS PARTY IS GAY AFFAIR

The annual Christmas party of the Shining Light Bible class of the United Brethren church Thursday night was a gay affair in the Community house which was prettily decorated in the season's colors and a large Christmas tree trimmed and lighted in the center of the room.

Group singing of Christmas carols led by Mrs. Iley Greeno opened the evening's program and was followed by a Christmas story read from the Bible by Mrs. Ed McClarren.

A short business session ensued with the president, Mrs. Roy Groce, in charge after which Rev. T. C. Harper gave a short talk on the Meaning of Christmas—What It Has Meant to Home and Child Life.

Mrs. Effie Albright was chairman of the remainder of the program, which consisted of a reading, "Vision of St. Nicholas" by Miss Daisy Woollever; recitation, "What Then" by Mrs. Ralph Long; reading, "Shine Where You Are" Miss Viola Woollever.

Mrs. Long in behalf of the class presented the class teacher, Mrs. Jennie Steele, with gifts after which Santa Claus in the person of Mrs. Greeno distributed gifts among the members.

A happy social hour followed during which dainty refreshments were served to the fifty members and guests present by the December committee comprised of Mrs. Amanda Cox, chairman, Mrs. George Byers, Mrs. Charles Betz and Miss Blanche Ryan.

NEW HEROES

THERE is confirmation of a changed trend in popular thought in news that several motion-picture companies are trying to be the first to get out a picture exalting the federal secret service. The killings of Dillinger and "Baby Face" Nelson are said to have been the spark that set off this new enthusiasm. After months of quiet, efficient work, the federal men did something spectacular enough to make the movie public conscious of daring within the ranks of the service of law and order.

At the height of the wave of gangster films we had, in spite of the stereotyped "crime-doesn't-pay" endings, a kind of exaltation of the underworld thug. He was a modern Robin Hood, or a two-fisted bucko who swaggered through the story in a sympathetic way; he was a misunderstood boy gone wrong, and, of course, he had to pay the penalty. But he wasn't really despicable. And the forces of the law were merely that—the law. Now we are to get something different, with the criminal shown as a rat and the man of the law the real hero. Not a story which is moral by indirection, but a story which exalts the law.

It is a significant change. And it is, as most fashions in movies are, a reflection of public sentiment among the masses. Times have changed. The next thing we know our small boys will be squabbling over the honor of playing the role of detective in their games. Only a few years ago the choice role among the youngsters was that of the gangster, you may recall.

MAYBE IT WON'T BE LONG

WITH steel mills gyrating away at 35 per cent of capacity, the highest rate of production since June, and steadily gaining, with automobile factories stepping up output week by week as new car buying gains momentum, with bank clearings showing gains over last year for three consecutive weeks, reversing a long-continued trend—but why go on?

Business is better, so what matter the details? The outlook for next year is encouraging and the prospect for a steadily-improving trend in business is all the more solidly founded because it is unaccompanied by much ballyhoo. When men like Charles G. Dawes predict the end of the depression the days of the "Old Devil" are numbered.

CALENDAR GIFTS

IN former years we used to get so many calendars, largely from commercial houses, that it took a little artificial enthusiasm to pump up proper gratitude for them.

But in these times when people look at a nickel with longing affection, many concerns that used to send out calendars have adjourned this nice habit. If we don't accept those our friends send us with suitable interest, we may be altogether lacking in them in future.

Inspiring quotations for every day or week is a noble kind of gift. It is like inviting your friend to go with you to some mountain top, where you see above the murky air, and get a vision of far horizons. When we begin the day with the philosophers, we don't spend it with the greouches and knockers.

CAROLINE by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

CHAPTER XXXIX

On the way to tell Caroline the good news he planned how and where they should be married—in another town, of course, by a justice of the peace if Caroline did not object—less fuss, then they could go on to New York—and sail or motor from there to wherever they liked.

He jumped out of his car and ran gayly up the walk to the porch, pressed the doorbell button exuberantly and stood waiting impatiently to be admitted. It was Mrs. Stevenson who let him in and in answer to his eager inquiry about Caroline told him that Miss Rutledge was upstairs with her father.

"Mr. Rutledge is ill, sir. We've sent for the doctor. He was brought home at dinner time in a daze. He's very weak, sir."

"May I go up?" Howard snapped. Caroline appeared at the head of the stairs. "Please come up," she said in a frightened half whisper. Howard was shocked when he saw the sick man. Philip appeared to have aged years in the past twenty-four hours. He was pallid and shrunken, with drawn lips and glazed eyes, in which there lingered a hint of terror.

Howard thought: "It's paraisi!" But he said to Caroline: "Looks like a nervous breakdown. Don't worry. We'll have him right again in no time."

She went out of the room with him. When they were alone, Howard swept her into his arms with a masterly foreboding. "Darling," he whispered, "think of me a moment. I've waited so long for you. And now we can be married. Tomorrow. Don't let anything come between us again. Your father will be all right. We'll place him in a sanitarium. I need good nursing, that's all. I've made good plans—we're going away on our honeymoon. This is the only time I have—don't let anything spoil it."

Caroline pulled herself away from him. In her face joy struggled with distress. "Oh Howard, I'm so glad. You are all mine to love now."

"Nothing can keep us apart but you, dear. We could be married this afternoon if you would. But please, not later than tomorrow. My vacation begins then. Let's not waste a day of it. We'll go to Bermuda, Florida, Cuba, anywhere you like."

Caroline sank back against him with a deep sigh. "I can't plan, dearest, until I hear what the doctor says about Father. If his life is in danger—if he needs me—I can't leave him."

Her tone was quiet, not unusually emphatic, but Howard knew that to argue with her was useless. They went on upstairs and into their plans, saying he knew her father would quickly recover. But in his heart was a premonition of defeat.

The doctor pronounced Philip's condition critical, but not hopeless. A nervous and mental disorder, brought on by worry and—she hesitated over saying it—dissipation. But the patient could be nursed back to health, he believed.

Howard sought with every persuasive argument at his command to induce Caroline to have her father removed to a sanitarium and go on with their plan to be married without delay.

Caroline asked for a week. If her father were better then she would leave him. Howard was constrained to accept her decision. Had he not feared that it would become known to his father he'd have asked her to marry there, or in some near-by town, and given up the wedding trip. Although the thought of a honeymoon spent in the house on Edge Street with his bride nursing an invalid father, caused him to shudder. But he could not escape the nameless fear, that he would lose the girl he loved. He'd have done anything to possess her, short of defying his father.

Three days later Gwendolyn returned to her father's house. Howard heard of it very shortly. He had told his father that he would like to postpone his vacation for a week in order to find someone to go on a motoring trip with him. He did not go back to his so-called work at the factory. Mr. Dunsworth telephoned him from the office one morning before Howard had left the house and asked him to get over there as quickly as possible. Howard found him in a rage. "Hell's popping," he shouted the instant Howard had closed the door. "Why in heaven's name didn't you tell me the truth you—"

Howard paled. "What the devil?" he tried to say but the words stuck in his throat.

"Yes, stand there and look like a dumb ox," his father exploded. "You'll say something fast enough when old man Hoffmann gets his hands on you. So Gwendolyn was going to marry Freddy Somebody was she? And she wouldn't pass a word to say against you?"

The sneering, snarling voice whipped at Howard's ears like a lash. They were followed by a bitter taunting laugh.

"Well, she's said it my fine double-crossing son."

Howard stumbled to the nearest chair, sank into it helplessly. His father raved on.

"You didn't think of what would happen if she fell out with Freddy, did you? But that's just what happened. She told it all to Hoffmann, and believe me I got it from him. He went out of here a minute ago wild as a bull. And that's the end of us!"

Howard plucked out a handkerchief and wiped a wet brow. He was scared—but so far his father hadn't mentioned Caroline—perhaps Gwendolyn hadn't told everything.

"Well, what if she did break up with Freddy?" he asked with a weak defiance. "No reason why she couldn't tell about it now."

"None at all," his father agreed sarcastically, "and by the same token there was no reason why she shouldn't say that your neglect drove her into it in the first place." He paused, and his voice fell to a low, savage, intensity as he added: "Because of your insane infatuation for that Rutledge girl."

Howard flinched. Henry Dunsworth strode over and stood above him in a threatening attitude. "I've been a fool," he gritted between his teeth, "falling for your lies, but let me tell you this. I'm done with that. If you marry that girl you'll never get a penny of my money."

Howard threw up a hand in a negative gesture. "I haven't married her," he said hoarsely, "and I've been free for days. And you might remember that I stuck to Gwen when the very sight of her made me sick. Just to protect you. She's the one you ought to blame. She's had everything her own way. I could kill the little beast!"

"I'm blaming you," he growled ahead and throw up everything for the daughter of an old drunken bum! "They'll never touch a cent of my money!"

A glint of light appeared in Howard's eyes. "You can't stand between me and Caroline just because Hoffmann's letting you down. Retorted. "It would be the same if it were any other girl. I won't give her up, I tell you. I love her. Doesn't that mean anything to you?"

"It means that you're a darn fool. But you can make your own choice. She got you into this mess about ruined us. I've got to sell now to Purcell at any price. But don't make any mistake about where you stand. You're practically broke. I know that. Spent all your grandmother's money. On that Rutledge girl, I suppose. You'll go out on your feet, flat. If you marry her, so help me!"

Howard was licked. "O.K.," he said wearily and got up to go. "But I'll never forgive you for this!" His father laughed.

It was Saturday. Howard went out to South Town and waited for Caroline to come home from work. She cried out in alarm at sight of him, but he gave her some fictitious story of witnessing a bad accident and Caroline accepted it. She mixed him a drink and tried to keep him talking about other things so that he would forget what he had seen.

She was feeling very happy. Her father was much improved. Howard compelled himself to show a proper interest in Philip's condition, but he did not speak of what it might mean to them.

Caroline was grateful for what she took to be his patience. She wanted the full week in which to make certain that her father's progress toward recovery would continue. And it would hurt all the more, she felt, if they must delay their marriage longer, to have made all their plans for it.

At the end of the week of waiting she announced to Howard, with radiant joy, that it would be safe to leave Philip in Mrs. Stevenson's care.

"You've been so sweet and kind, darling," she added, kissing him tenderly. "I hope I can make you really and truly happy."

Howard held her close, kept her face turned away from him as he answered. He had thought it all out a hundred times, what he would say to her. With words he would mold the bare fact of his cowardice into an act of reason, color it with plausibility and fitness. But suddenly the words he had chosen deserted him.

"Oh, Caro, Caro," he whispered brokenly, "help me, help me."

And then he told her that they could not be married. For a while Caroline lay quiet in his arms, uttering not a sound. Howard began pouring out words of entreaty against the numbness of her mind.

He felt her tremble, shake. She tried to draw away. He held her closer still. "Don't, don't," he pleaded. "I can't lose you, Caro. I can't. Don't turn on me. don't blame me. I've been through hell. Dad's a devil. He'll persecute us forever if we defy him."

It seemed to Caroline that she had been plunged into a nightmare. All that was clear to her was that Howard was proposing to let her go down for no better reason than his fear of disinheritance. He was free—no, he was not free. Dollars shackled him. He was steeped in the worship of Mammon. She could feel a wall of gold rising up between them—was it on a scale, with her in the balance?

She did not laugh. She did not cry. She simply felt sickened. When she tore herself free of his arms, without violence, but with infinite relief to be beyond the touch of his hands, he sensed the true measure of her reaction. Stark despair strove into his soul.

Caroline sent him away. With words as soft as she could summon, because she felt no anger toward him, she told him that he must go. She pitied him, seeing his weakness as she had never seen it before. But it was not the pity that is akin to love. She was glad when the door closed behind him. She did not want to look at him, or think of him. It was as though he took with him the ashes of a fallen idol.

Dry-eyed and calm she went upstairs and told her father what had happened. Her voice was level, cool.

"I wasn't because he said that he couldn't marry me," she said, "but all at once I knew that you and Mother, and Malcolm, had been right. What love I had left for him died in that moment, when I saw the real Howard."

"What love you had left?" her father repeated.

She nodded. "I know—now—that I've been falling out of love with him for a long time. He kept me from knowing it with his kindness."

Philip sighed. "I'm glad," he said simply. And then, "I suppose you won't go back to the factory," he added.

Caroline did not answer for a moment. "Why shouldn't I?" she asked finally. "I earn my wages."

"I'd rather you didn't," her father told her.

"Well, I'll look for something else."

But first, there were other things she must do. Heading the list was the necessity of telling Mrs. Stevenson she could not keep her. That astonishing person declared she would stay without pay, at least until Mr. Rutledge was up and around again. Quite without knowing it Caroline had won the lady's heart.

Then came a hard task—to write to Fern that she must let the nurse whom Howard was paying go immediately. Fern promptly wrote back, greatly to Caroline's relief, that she had meant to do this anyhow, as Arthur had got a job at last and they could get along very well without the woman.

Proper Posture Is a Factor in Good Health

Many Constitutional Disorders Are Traceable to Faulty Carriage, Says Authority

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health,
New York City

IN A RECENT pamphlet issued by the New York Academy of Medicine, poor posture is defined as a fault in the disposition of the parts of the body.

Faulty posture is a frequent occurrence in childhood. Doctors who specialize in this work believe that if good posture is maintained in childhood, many constitutional disorders would be avoided.

Faulty posture can often be traced to negligence in early infancy and childhood. Frequently the young infant is allowed to walk too soon. During infancy the body is rapidly growing and the muscles of the legs have not fully developed.

For this reason the infant requires many hours of sleep and rest. To prevent faulty posture, the growing child should not be subjected to undue muscular activity and strain. He should not be permitted to walk until his muscles are strong.

The young mother is always anxious to see her child sit and walk as early as possible. In her eagerness she encourages it. This may prove harmful to the baby learning to walk while the muscles are still undeveloped. It sometimes leads to knock-knee, bowleg, pigeon toe and other defects that bring about faulty posture in later life.

Of course, faulty posture may be the result of rickets, poor hygiene, faulty nutrition, mental overstrain, venereal and repeat your question. enlarged tonsils or centers of infection.

TENSION ENDS IN TENNESSEE, SCENE OF RIOT

600 Soldiers May Be Withdrawn; Change of Venue
Seen For Negro.

SHELBYVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 21.—Ordinary quiet, enforced by 600 national guardsmen, prevailed today in Shelbyville, scene of rioting by a lynch-maddened mob in which three white men were killed and the $150,000 Bedford-co courthouse destroyed by fire.

Racial tension that brought a bloody clash between militiamen and the mob or more than 1,500 for possession of a negro prisoner apparently had subsided. Authorities indicated that the troops, rushed here from Nashville when the rioters were in possession of the town, would be withdrawn within 24 hours.

CHANGE TRIAL SCENE

Circuit Judge T. L. Coleman announced that a change of venue will be given the negro, E. K. Harris, 22, with the possibility that his trial will be held in Nashville, where he is now in jail, as a precaution against further violence. Harris is charged with criminally attacking a 14-year-old white girl. The death toll was raised to three when Clifford Freeman, 45, succumbed to abdominal wounds suffered in repeated mob attacks against the militiamen guarding the courthouse. Raleigh Edwards, 30, and an unidentified man whose body was spirited away and buried were the other fatalities.

Nearly a score were wounded by bullets, bayonets and tear gas bombs, a checkup disclosed. The national guardsmen on duty had little to do today besides keep their equipment in order, for the town's 5,000 population seemingly had turned to the business of preparing for the Christmas holidays.

Military headquarters were being maintained at the police station.

Residents of the negro quarter, frightened into seclusion during the rioting, were still reluctant to appear on the streets regardless of the absence of any demonstration.

"And is your daughter happily married?"
"Oh, yes; her husband's scared to death of her."

Holiday Sweets

Home-made candies and sweet things express a joyful holiday spirit and the fun of making them should not be overlooked. The youngsters enjoy making their own goodies, and simple candies are not harmful when eaten in moderation and immediately following meals. The thing to avoid is the all-day candy eating that satisfies the appetite and prevents the enjoyment of a normal appetite at meal times.

A garnish for gift cookie boxes and candy boxes that adds greatly to their attractiveness, is the candied grapefruit peel. Divide into three parts, the quantity of peel that you are cooking in the sugar syrup. Add red coloring to one part, green coloring to the second, and leave the third uncolored. When the peel has dried, it will be gay and colorful for decorating food gifts.

Candied Grapefruit Peel
Select fruit with thick clear skins. Peel and cut rind into pieces of uniform size, 2 or 3 inches long and 1/4-inch wide. Cover with cold water, and bring almost to the boiling point, but do not boil. Drain and repeat this process twice again. Add to the peel its own weight in granulated sugar. Cover again with cold water and boil until no syrup shows in the saucepan when it is held to the side. Spread on a buttered platter and, when partly cool, roll in sugar. Use the same method for candying orange peel.

College Fudge

- 2 C. sugar
- 3/4 C. milk
- 2 Tbsp. butter
- 2 sq. chocolate
- 2 Tbsp. light corn syrup
- 1 tsp. vanilla

Cut chocolate into small pieces and combine with the sugar, liquid and syrup. Cook slowly, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Cook until a temperature of 234 degrees is reached, or a soft ball that will hold its shape. Form, when a few drops are put into cold water. Cool until lukewarm (110 degrees), or until the bottom of the pan feels cool when held for several minutes on the palm of the hand. Add vanilla and beat until the fudge loses its shiny look, or until a small amount dropped from the spoon will hold its shape. Pour into a greased pan, or knead the fudge and make into rolls, wrap in oiled paper and slice off as needed. Fudge should be smooth in texture and soft enough to cut without breaking. Fudge that is too thin, dries quickly. Sour cream may be used and the liquid and the butter omitted.

Chocolate Dip

- 1/2 lb. sweet chocolate
- 1 oz. paraffin
- 4 C. corn flakes
- or raisins, or peanuts

Melt the chocolate and paraffin over hot water. Carefully stir in corn flakes, nuts, or whatever you are dipping. Spread on separate rack and allow to cool. Separate all flakes or arrange them in clusters. Use more corn flakes if a thin coating of chocolate is desired.

Popecorn Caramel

- 1 pt. syrup (maple or molasses)
- 2 Tbsp. butter
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1 pt. sugar (2 C.)
- 1 tsp. vinegar
- 1/2 tsp. soda

Cook syrup, sugar, vinegar and salt to 275 degrees hard ball stage. Add butter, stir in soda and, while foaming, pour over four quarts of freshly popped corn, stirring until the grains are well coated. If maple syrup is used, omit the soda.

BALL PLANNED FOR INAUGURAL EVENT

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21.—Plans are being made for an old-time inaugural Jan. 14, the first one of its kind since 1921. Martin L. Davey, governor-elect, has approved an inaugural ball. Memorial hall has been reserved for the ball.

A press smoker is also planned.

"Emmanuel"

Emmanuel, God with us,
How wonderful Thy name,
To those who, by the Spirit,
Its fullest meaning claim!

In Thee God's glory shineth,
His beauty in thy face,
His love Thou manifestest,
To every man and race.

Thou comfort of the grieving,
Thou hope of the forlorn,
Through Thee the night of weeping,

Becomes the joyous morn.

Thou art the peerless pattern,
Of purest, selfless life;
Thou art the inspiration,
To ever nobler strife.

Thou callest us to follow:
The path that Thou hast trod,
The path of love and service,
Befitting sons of God.

Emmanuel, God with us,
Our Saviour and Our Lord,
To Thee all praise we offer,
All glory we accord.

About This And That

BY THE
SECOND GUESSER

13 ARE HONORED

Twelve youths who "gave their all" for dear old C. H. S. during the past football season and a thirteenth who acted as their manager received letters in a chapel service at the high school Friday morning. The service was presided over by Principal E. I. Cephart.

FOUR GET MEDALS

Four seniors who had previously received letters were given medals showing service; they were George Speakman, Walter Osborn, Joe Bell and Bob Watts. Other seniors receiving awards were Roderick Watts, Ned Plum, George Roth and Ous Mader. Juniors were Willard Friley, Fred Grant and John Griffith, and sophomores included Norman Coleman and Don Henry. No freshmen were awarded letters—Horace Gilmore received the manager's award.

VISIT CHILLICOTHE

The Tiger came tonight in a confident but not cocky mood. It has been a long while since a Circleville team has beaten a Chillicothe aggregation but the locals are believed to have a good chance to turn the trick this evening. Coach Herberholz starting lineup will probably include the usual five Henry, Kirwin, Grant, Speakman and John Jenkins—Fritz Mackey of Wesleyan is the referee.

N. HOLLAND AND SCIOTO TANGLE

New Holland boys won but Scioto-2wp girls turned the tables to the other side when the teams of the two schools tangled at Commercial Point Thursday evening.

Coach Shadel Saunders' team was victorious 40 to 22 but the girls piloted by Coach John Barricklow won 19-7 for Scioto. Saunders was high for the winning girls.

OHIO CAGERS BUSY

By Ohio College basketball teams today were cleaning up their schedules for the Christmas vacation.

In a series of games last night, Ohio University trimmed Marietta, 39 to 17, Toledo turned back Denison, 26 to 19 and Kent State bested Fenn College, 27 to 22.

An overtime session was necessary to decide the Bowling Green-Ashland tilt, but the B-G's finally came out of the game with a 39 to 35 advantage.

Xavier met and conquered Kentucky Wesleyan, 41 to 22 and Akron Goodyear defeated Miami, a Buckeye conference team, 35 to 29. Wittenberg again was on the wrong end of a decision, suffering a 47 to 23 defeat at the hands of George Washington.

Most of the collegiate squads will be due during the holidays, from Saturday until the first of the year.

STAR CAGERS WITH COLLEGE COURT SQUAD

Hunt, Starrett, Others Play Against Club Christmas Night; Prelim Booked.

A real team of stars is being brought here by Curly Griffin of Bliss College Christmas night to combat the Circleville Athletic club aggregation.

Griffin will have Barney Hunt, known better as a golfer but a fine basketball player; Bob Starrett, former Columbus East star; Clarence Towler, Dana Deshler, Sheets and Lank Ferguson. Several other star performers are expected to be in the Bliss lineup.

The lineup of the club team has not yet been ascertained. Judy Gordon, who is running the team, may start Barnes at center, Steele and Vlerobone at forwards, and will pair himself with Carl Purcell at guards. This would leave George Parks and Bill Hezede ready for action at any time. Vlerobone will be here during the holidays while his school at Dalton is closed.

The preliminary will see the Emory club comprised of former high school athletes and coached by Cuzz Dutton taking on the Williamsport Independents. Andy Anderson, Huxley and several other well known cagers of the Williamsport district are included in their lineup.

Johnny Heiskell will handle the whistle for both games.

GOPHERS HONORED

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Dec. 21—Minnesota today had possession of the Knute Rockne memorial trophy, awarded annually to the acknowledged national football champion.

The plaque was awarded between halves of the Minnesota-Carleton basketball game last night, which the Minnesota quintet won by a 34 to 26 score. Prof. Frank Dickinson of the University of Illinois, whose rating system was used to determine the winner, presented the trophy while 6,500 persons looked on.

In his address Prof. Dickinson said "the trophy symbolizes that the University of Minnesota has overcome stronger opposition than any other team in the United States."

BIRDS GET TWO

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21—A new pitcher and a new infielder, both formerly of the Greensboro, N. C. club of the Piedmont league, today had been added to the 1935 roster of the Columbus Red Birds, American Association champions.

The pitcher is Dick Newsome, of Asheville, N. C., former baseball star at Wake Forest College. Last year he made a record of 10 victories and 10 defeats, regarded a creditable standing as Greensboro was in first place in the Piedmont circuit.

Sam Naron, a third baseman, was turned out last season to Martinsville, Va., in the Eastern league where he hit .400 most of the season. His home is in Middlesex, N. C.

Big Small Bore Man

Sam Bond

Selected by the National Rifle association as America's outstanding small bore rifleman, Sam Bond, of New Philadelphia, O., wears a modest victory smile.

MEET IN EAST

BALTIMORE, Dec. 21—Navy and Notre Dame will play their annual football game in Baltimore stadium Friday night, according to Lieutenant Commander Paul H. Brown, Jr., director of football at the academy, in an announcement made today.

PAUL DEAN WEDS CAMPUS BEAUTY

IRISH TOWN, N.Y., Dec. 21—Another chapter in the career of Paul "Denny" Dean, pitching ace of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals, began today.

Dean and his bride, the former Miss Dorothy Santusky, beautiful 19-year-old Avonlea Polytechnic college co-ed, were en route to Chillicothe, Miss., and Florida on an automobile honeymoon trip.

After a two months' courtship the couple were married at the bride's home here last night with the Rev. Homer W. Hulsb of the First Christian church performing the ceremony. Woody Mayes, local cafe operator, was the best man.

Paul wore a suit he had purchased on a flying trip yesterday afternoon to Fort Smith where he bought the wedding ring. Hurrying back, he secured the wedding license in Ozark.

Although Paul had known his bride for two years he didn't really start "going with her" until he returned from the world series victory over Detroit last fall.

At Guilford the couple will meet "Dizzy" Dean and his wife and the four will continue to Florida to spend the winter.

CHIEF SUSPENDS VETERAN FIREMAN

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21—O. L. Rodgers, battalion chief of the fire department where he has been connected for 26 years, has been suspended for conduct unbecoming an officer and "deceiving" the fire chief.

An argument in one of the engine houses in which profanity reigned is the basis for the charges.

Have you forgotten to answer that letter from your local tuberculosis association? Why not find the letter today, send in your check and start using the Christmas Seals?

Hopes to Swim Again

Lisa Lindstrom

Recovering from a broken back suffered in an automobile accident last summer, 22-year-old Lisa Lindstrom, flaxen-haired swimming star, soon expects to remove her foot brace and swim again. She holds several records.

Quintuplets' Doctor In Big City

Forests and quiet country roads are the natural environment of Dr. Allan Roy Daffoe, who brought into the world at Corbeil, Ont. the famous Dionne quintuplets. Here is the doctor, left, with the tall spires of Manhattan in the background, arriving in New York City for the second time in 26 years to tell how he kept the little girls alive through the hardships of their early months.

THE CIRCLEVILLE (OHIO) HERALD

Mr. Red Mullston calling, sir.

Mr. Kett sent me.

Oh yes, yes - the foot ball star - last time I saw you it cost me thirty dollars for seats.

On the position, sure of course, well, my daughter - she needs a guard!

I have a wire - she's coming home - you know - someone to go around and keep an eye on her - you're hired on one condition - don't fall in love with her!

I'm safe - Mr. Bullions - I've already gone down the third time over a case!

Free! Not in Washington - though - I don't exactly what you'd call a man hater!

Wotta day at the store - I'm all in - look - our duck is running away!

2 hours later

Dawgonit - we lost her - no we didn't.

There it is sitting on that fence - I'll bring it's fool neck - c'mon

YEOW WOW HELP AWK

ARREST THOSE THIEVES, OFFICER - THEY TRIED TO STEAL THAT OSTRICH

IF WE COULD ONLY FIND THE FELLOW WITH THE BROWN PLAID SUIT...

LOOK! TED POWERS! AND A BROWN SUIT...

Hi, Hooker! Lo' Collins, hear the dean caught up with you and fired you out of Braxton.

I'll sell it to you cheap, examine it, you see, I need money for Christmas and...

ME TOO, HOOKER. SORRY I CAN'T BUY IT. I'M SHORT OF GOLD TOO

SAM! A BROWN! AND ON THIS PLAID SUIT - A TORN SLEEVE - FRANTS TO BE COMPARED WITH THOSE FOUND ON THE STOLEN CHAPEL BELL!

Ho! Ho! YOU'RE TELLIN' ME!

THAT'S RIGHT, LAUGH! BUT SHE SAYS THERE WILL BE WEEPIN' AND WAILIN' AND GUASHING OF TEETH AMONG THE WICKED IN THE NEXT WORLD!

YEAH? SUPPOSE THEY AINT GOT NO TEETH!

TEETH WILL BE PROVIDED!

YOU'RE COMING ALONG BRADFORD SO YOU CAN SEE NO HARM WILL COME TO MISS SALISBURY, BUT...

IF YOU MAKE ONE FALSE MOVE, I'LL LET HER HAVE THIS!

YOU WIN THIS TIME, BROCCO.

HOW DO I LOOK, BRICK?

MARVELOUS - I ONLY WISH THIS WASN'T SUCH A DANGEROUS DATE!

I'M NOT AFRAID, BRICK - WITH YOU ALONG!

I HATE THAT BIMBO - I HATE TO WORK IN THE SAME OFFICE WITH HIM - HE THINKS HE MADE A HIT WITH MY SWEETIE

NOW LISTEN - I'M BUSY AND I DON'T WANT YOU OR ANYONE ELSE TO COME IN MY OFFICE - I'LL FIRE THE NEXT PERSON THAT COMES IN MY OFFICE DO YOU HEAR ME?

YES - BOSS

WHY NOT? I'LL DO IT.

I THINK THE BOSS WANTS TO SEE YOU IN HIS OFFICE

PLANS OF COMMITTEE MAY CONTROL INSURGENTS

FOUR-TO-ONE HOUSE RATIO

Trouble In Next Congress Easily Averted, Leaders Declare, By Action.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—Sweeping reorganization of congressional committees, which will strike a blow at insurgent Democrats and make the Republicans

"harmless," was being drawn by Democratic leaders today. With huge majorities in both senate and house, the reorganization is expected to vastly increase the Democratic majority on all important committees.

The program would effectively prevent an alliance between minority Republicans and the insurgents to block administration measures. It would give President Roosevelt an unbreakable hold on congress.

Rep. Joseph Byrns of Tennessee, next speaker of the house, favors revision of all house committees and increase of Democratic membership. Senate Democrats are urging a similar program upon Senator Joseph Robinson of Arkansas, majority leader. The house plan calls for a ratio of four Democrats to one Republican on committees. The senate ratio may be three to one.

"The Democrats have three-fourths of the house membership," said Byrns. "Members are entitled to committee representation and the committees should fairly represent the house. It seems to me that it would be fair to increase the Democratic membership and I personally favor that plan. I shall urge it upon the house."

ELIMINATION ASKED FOR R. R. CROSSING

CLEVELAND, Dec. 21—Elimination of 240,000 railroad grade crossings in the United States by the federal government was urged as a relief measure here today by the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

The plan was announced when the C. of C. directors approved a report by the chamber's transportation committee declaring that if the federal government is to undertake heavier expenditures for work relief it should follow the grade-crossing elimination channel.

"Such improvements would result in permanent improvement available to the people as a whole, would aid industry where aid is most needed, and would provide for the quickest possible employment of large numbers of men," the report said.

BALED HAY BURNS

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21—A great quantity of baled hay stored under the Pennsylvania railroad at the state fair grounds was destroyed by fire Thursday afternoon. Men sleeping in the warm hay are believed to have started the blaze which resulted in a 2-alarm call.

Although the season is well advanced, no successful radiator alcohol drinking parties have been chronicled in the public prints.

DERN FAVORS SCIOTO WORK

Believe Conservancy Program Will Be Included In 1935 Budget.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 21—Increased optimism for the possible approval of the $36,000,000 Scioto-Sandusky water conservation plan as a PWA project in 1935 was felt here today by officials of the conservancy district as Secretary of War George S. Dern gave his official approval of the program.

Dern included the Scioto-Sandusky project in his report to President Roosevelt outlining an $8,000,000,000 nation-wide flood, drought and soil erosion control program as approved by Army engineers.

Dern's approval came on the heels of an announcement from Washington by Congressman A. P. Lamneck, Franklin-co., that Harold Ickes, national director of the PWA, had unofficially expressed his commendation of the project.

Meanwhile, Alan Jordan, executive secretary of the conservancy district, declared that the preliminary survey being made of 10 dam sites in the Scioto and Sandusky Rivers was rapidly nearing completion, and probably would be ready for submission to PWA officials in Washington shortly after Jan. 1.

The project, if completed, will provide a chain of lakes along the two rivers from Lake Erie to the Ohio River and provide 17 central Ohio counties with flood and drought protection.
